Foreword

Dear Sisters and Brothers,

This book is dedicated to Humanity. It is a gift that I have been given to make, to write, in order to convey to all of you, my Brothers and Sisters. Why I am writing this book now is, even for me, a mystery. Certainly, I am moving forward in my life, and these past few months have been significant and decisive. I no longer live today as I did just a few months ago. Everything happened so quickly, with such force, and at the same time, it gave coherence to everything I had experienced up to this day. Some have called me sick, others have tried to destroy me, but nothing worked; events have always been against them, and today they pay a huge price for all their actions. I am merely the observer and the messenger.

This book follows a series of texts I have written since August 4th, 2012, which are published on www.luminosis.org. There is a logic, a consistency, and a strength in this collection, and I hope you will be able to see it.

So, this text is for you, my Brothers and Sisters. It is a testament to the Love I have for you because we are all One for Our Father.

Thanks to My Father for His Love and everything He gives to Humanity and to this World.

So, who am I?

This question is inevitable, so I prefer to address it right away. I am just a man among men and nothing more. I am merely a messenger who has been chosen. I have no idea why I was chosen, and it is not for me to know.

Do not dwell on who I am; consider me as a simple messenger, a scribe, and nothing more.

What I offer you today through this work and the rest does not come from me. Indeed, one day my hand started to write, my eyes opened, and I set out on a journey to find My Father. This journey will last throughout this existence, and I will fully find it only on the day of my other birth, that death that sometimes scares you. There will be a day when all humans can be fully with Our Father, but that day is still distant. However, have no doubt; that day will come.

So, who am I? I've already lived a lot and done many things like everyone else. I have children; I've been through a divorce; I've created businesses - startups; I've lived in California; and so on. Perhaps you're wondering if I'm one of those religious fanatics? Well, no. Certainly, I grew up in a Christian culture, but my education is that of an engineer filled with mathematics, physical sciences, and computers. The contrast may seem striking, but in fact, one must have a scientific foundation to delve into metaphysics and the particles of the subtle world. The Laws of Our Father, and therefore those of the Universe, are mathematical and scientific. If scientists - in the broad sense - would only open their eyes and not just consider the world of visible matter, they would discover the true principles that underlie it.

Unfortunately, for some, I do not fit the profile of a mystic or a religious fanatic, so all that remains for them is to call me sick, despite all the evidence of my rationality and deep commitment to the empirical and experimental approach.

I do not want to say more about myself. Now forget who I am and focus on the content of this book because that is what matters. I wish you a good read and pray that you come away convinced of the change you must make within yourself

Love

Love is an eternal subject of human concern. One only needs to observe what they make of their existence to realize this. Love is the source of their joys, albeit fleeting, and sometimes the cause of their complaints until the end of their lives. But why Love? Why this need to Love? What drives every man and woman to seek Love? Why is the notion of happiness associated with Love? These are fundamental questions that everyone should ponder before embarking on the life-quest for Love.

Love is found in Nature. Look at that tree providing shelter to those birds. Look at that flower nourishing that bee. Look at that sun giving its light and warmth to all. Is there a single being on Earth lacking the sunlight? Does the sun discriminate between one and another? Does the increasing human population reduce the amount of sunlight each person receives? Love is everywhere, and if you open your eyes, you will discover it in the smallest details of Nature.

If love is so prevalent in Nature, it's because Nature itself originates from Love. Love is the foundation of this world and the Universe. Yes, the Universe. Nothing that exists is created from anything other than Love. There is a foundation, a primary Truth to return to: Our Father is Love.

The one who birthed this world did so by embracing that sublime force, which is Love. In the beginning, there was Love. Light materialized from Love, and if Love is everywhere, it's because Love is the foundation of the Universe.

Everything that has been given and is given originates from Love. Love is a force of unparalleled power; nothing surpasses the power of Love; it is the absolute force.

If the men and women of this world seek Love, it is because they have lost the ability to feel the Love within them. Every being on this Earth is Loved and will always be Loved. No one is, or will ever be, alone; even the most terrible and solitary of humans is Loved just as much as the gentlest and kindest. Our Father's Love is given to all and will continue forever; it is the inner sun of every being, their strength, the flow of Life.

The search for Love must begin with the rediscovery of the Love within you. Nothing, no external Love, can fill the void created by forgetting this Love. Look at all these Love stories; there is always something amiss. There is always another quest, a disappointment because Love without the Love within you cannot be stable and complete.

Do not believe that religions, whatever they may be, can lead you to the Love of Our Father. Religions are human inventions, and they have nothing, absolutely nothing, to do with Our Father. Our Father did not desire any of them. At best, they are the misuse of Our Father's Word by ignorants, and at worst, they are perverse and unhealthy inventions of the worst of men.

The time has come to let religions disappear and return to the path of Love and Our Father. Humanity had to experience religions to understand how much they are a scourge and only bring war, violence, intolerance, and bloodshed. Their end has come, and it is high time to let them perish and never return to them.

Understand well, if there were a religion of Our Father, it would be unique, recognized by all. It would be Love, pure Love, and nothing else. There would be no temples, no churches, no mosques; none of that is necessary. There would be no priests, no imams, no pastors, no religious leaders because they are unnecessary. There would only be Love.

Religions have all misused Our Father's word by claiming to be Love when they are based on the differences between believers, faithful, and others, whether they are pagans, unbelievers, infidels, or atheists. Our Father's Love is given to all; there is no difference between men, and even less between women and men.

Love cannot be a religion. No religion can be Love. Therefore, they must be abandoned; let the fools who wish to follow them continue on this path of misery. It is time now for humanity to focus on Love as the origin of everything because Love is in everything, and everything is Love.

Love for You and Love for Others

Do you know how to look at another human being and think that they are Loved by Our Father, just as you are Loved? There is no difference; you are both Children of Our Father. What harm would you do to your brother or sister? Who can kill their brother or sister? Who can stone or torture their brother or sister? Who can cast anathema upon their brother or sister? No one. No man can do so without risking the choice of a path filled with misery and difficulty for several lifetimes.

Love others as you Love yourself because the other is also you. All men and women are children of the same family, the family of Our Father. The Son of Our Father is this family. There is only one and only one family, and it must be united, supportive, and loving because it is the Will of Our Father, but above all, it is what all humans seek. In this great family, there reigns an immense force, that of Our Father, that of His Love, which gave birth to Light.

Anyone who dares to call for the death of one of their brothers or sisters commits an abhorrent act that only a madman or an ignorant person can commit. "You shall not kill" is a Law of Our Father, and anyone who violates it, for whatever reason, will have to answer for it. Those who dare to kill in the name of religion, claiming to be guided by Our Father, are fools. Fools who show you how much religions are scourges, hideous monsters that defile humanity.

Religions do not love the "others," and their foundation is to create differences through rituals, costumes and customs, temples, and so on. Anything goes to ensure that the followers of one religion cannot be confused with the followers of another religion. The goal is clear: to make men different from each other, to sow confusion and hatred is their mission because that is how they reign.

Our Father is Love. Everything that comes from Him is Love. Men and women originate from Love. How could He have created religions that separate men?

How could He have created religions that call for killing one's neighbor in His name? It is absurd! A madness that men have imbibed for millennia, and oceans of blood bear witness to it.

Humanity must return to this Love within each being, the Love given to them by Our Father, and that they can give to whomever they wish. Love, you must Love to understand Love. You must give to receive even more. Love is inexhaustible, without end.

Love one another. Love one another because you are Loved and always will be. Extend your hand to your brother, to your sister, and give them your Love because that is why it is within you. If you refuse to give, then you refuse to receive, and it is you who punishes yourself and deprives yourself of Love. Nothing can replace the Love you have thus denied. This Love will remain within you, for it is there forever, waiting for your awakening.

Until your awakening, you will go from adventure to adventure, your path will be filled with messages and signals to remind you that you must return to the Love within you. The more you ignore what Life is trying to tell you, the more it will insist. Look no further for the cause of many illnesses and complicated lives. Our Father is infinitely patient, and He will wait for your awakening throughout the lifetimes you require.

And what will happen at your awakening? What strange thing will animate you? Oh, nothing; you will still be the same Body, but within you, there will be something full, the emptiness will have disappeared, the fear of lacking Love will have disappeared, and you will feel that nothing can take this Love away from you. You will want to give, give, give without expecting anything in return, to feel this Love soaring towards the other and even more Love within you.

Love is the only thing received by giving. If you only know how to take, then you cannot know Love. Love is born from giving, and it is strengthened in this way.

One cannot Love alone; there must always be another. Our Father could not Love without His Son, without this great family that is His Son. And in turn, you must Love to fill yourself with Love and to be. Joy, Peace, Wisdom come from Love.

So return to this Love within you. Close your eyes and try to feel the fire of Love within you. Give, day after day, give to others and feel. Do not judge your brothers and sisters because it is not for you to do so, and all have the right to your Love.

What is the purpose of Love?

Love has a function, and it is paramount. Without Love, the Universe could not exist; no star, no planet could exist. Love is what Our Father took within Himself to create the Universe. The Universe is the expression of the Love of Our Father; it is, in a way, His Child, and everything contained within this Universe is 'One.' Everything is part of the whole, nothing is separable, everything is connected; nothing can be taken away. It is a divine Law: nothing is lost, and everything transforms under the power of Love.

Love is, therefore, the creative force, the one that begets, creates, and nurtures. Try to live an existence without Love, without any Love whatsoever, without the Love of mother and father, without the Love of others, without the Love of a bird, without the Love of a flower, without Our Father's love, without any Love. Do you think a human being or a creature can live without any Love? No, that is not possible because Love is what constitutes Life. Without Love, Life cannot be.

So why Love, you may ask? Well, Love to give Life, to be and allow the rest of the Universe to be, to enable the growth of Love in the Universe. Love is an inexhaustible resource that only increases, and it will increase endlessly. Love is infinite and eternal. Every expression of Love, every feeling of Love, every emotion of Love joins Love and enhances it.

Loving is essential because it is how everyone can connect with the Universe, with Life, and with Our Father. The Act of Love is the basis of everything; it is the foundation, the explanation of the world and matter. The Act of Love allows the shaping of matter and further imbues it with Love. It is an evolutionary process that will lead to the realization of Our Father's Kingdom on Earth. Humanity's mission is to transform and shape matter with and through Love.

Nature has been shaped by the Love of Our Father, and one day it will be humanity's turn to continue this work. Certainly, for now, humanity is not ready, far from it, but it will come.

In the meantime, Nature guides humanity and corrects its mistakes. Nature is free to act according to the Will of Our Father, and it is all-powerful in respect of humanity. There will come a time when humanity will learn to work in harmony, in fusion, with Nature, but for now, humanity learns and tries, like a blind person who thinks they can see...

Death is just a change of state; it is the sibling of birth and is part of Life. Dying is nothing; it is a return before a new beginning. The Soul is immortal, and the Love of Our Father is with it forever. Thus, the cycles of Nature that entail disappearance, death, are, in truth, nothing serious; they are merely necessary adjustments. It is up to humanity to do the necessary work so that these adjustments are no longer required.

The Death is Love

It may seem contradictory, yet Death is a release, a return to the Love of Our Father for those who have lost it by coming into the World of matter. For others, it is merely a change of state, the end of a journey in the world of matter.

Life is eternal and can be expressed in matter. Birth and Death are two sisters, one allows a descent into matter, and the other allows a departure from it. Thus, Death is Love, the daughter of Life, just as much as Birth. Sadness should not surround you at the time of death but rather Love, Peace, and Joy to allow the departing soul to do so serenely.

Love is the force that initiates the descent into matter, and it is also the force that propels one to exit. Without Love, a soul can become 'stuck' between the two states and progress laboriously.

Religions, these scourges and monstrous inventions of humanity, fabricate lies and fears around death to achieve their ends. They have invented heaven and hell, invented purgatory, and more. They have invented and exploited everything they could to make humans afraid of death and manipulate them. All of this is absurd and dangerous for humanity.

Our Father is Love, if there were only one religion that belonged to Our Father, then death would be seen as a grace, a moment of Joy and Peace. There would not be a single cemetery, church, or mosque, no rituals, no priests, or anything of the sort. Death would be a moment of Love between companions of an incarnation.

Look closely at religions and let them disappear as every hideous invention of humanity should. They have rendered no service to humanity. Then, look at death, think and pray for those you have encountered and who have departed from this World. You need their Love, and they need yours. You will meet again because you are brothers and sisters for eternity.

Death belongs to Our Father, and no man, absolutely none, has the right to take it. 'Thou shalt not kill' is a Law, a limit that man must never cross. Those who cause death, even to themselves, those who advocate for death, will have to answer for it. Death belongs to Love, to Our Father

The Love of Mankind

Men and women of this world must love each other and experience Love within their bodies. The Act of Love is there for this purpose. Loving each other in this World allows you to work on matter and experience Love in various forms.

Do not confuse Love with sex. Sex is not Love, and sex for the sake of sex is a plague of the Hearts. Sexuality is part of Love, it is a potential component of the Act of Love, but sex for the sake of sex is a curse, just like lying or killing your brother. Sex for the sake of sex reduces a man or a woman to such a low state that the first rat you encounter will be more evolved!

Do not deny sexuality! Sexuality is essential for women and men. Religions have martyred generations and caused disasters by denying sexuality. Let all those who have made this absurd and insane vow of chastity free themselves from this madness! Leave your monasteries and convents, return to Life, Love, and have children that you will raise in the Love of Our Father. That is what Our Father wants.

Man and woman, woman and man, both are equal. There is no distinction between them for Our Father, and there should be none. The feminine principle and the masculine principle are universal, inseparable; one cannot exist without the other.

The Love of mankind is the search for the union between these two principles. The Act of Love is an experiment in this union. A union in equality, neither of the two principles is better or more than the other. The union can only be in perfect balance between the two.

The fools are those who, immersed in the throes of sex for sex, caught up in the madness of wanting to possess the other, their body, end up beating, stoning, killing the other. You cannot Love without profound respect for the other, for to Love the other is to Love them as yourself.

Homosexuality divides humanity, and religions have made it a battleground. Whenever you see a religion get upset about something that resembles Love, become suspicious and look for what is hidden. Love is Love. Love is indivisible. Love is Universal. Our Father is Love. The masculine and feminine principles can be expressed in many ways. Look at Nature, what do you see? Do you not see hermaphroditic species in nature? Why would what exists in Nature, which is Love and the Will of Our Father, be forbidden?

For the majority of humans, the masculine and feminine principles correspond respectively to men and women, just as it is for the majority of species in Nature. However, for example, snails and cochineals are hermaphroditic, the exception exists, and therefore, it has a purpose.

Everything is in Love; if the Act of Love is an expression of it, then Love exists. But if it is only sex for sex, then it is nothingness and darkness. Everything is there, everything is very simple, and it all comes back to the principle that the Universe is Love, and the Act of Love between man and woman must be its expression.

The Act of Love

To love with a Body is the opportunity to experience Love in various forms. The Act of Love is the space and time for this experimentation, for this discovery. The Act of Love unfolds in an infinite variety of forms, and women and men can spend many lifetimes discovering all its subtleties.

The Act of Love is not merely sex for the sake of sex; sexuality is a part of the Act of Love, much like fine wine complements a good meal. It's crucial not to exclude sexuality from the Act of Love, but even more important not to reduce it solely to that. We will delve into sexuality in more detail later in this work. For now, understand that using the term "making love" to refer to sex is a mistake, and one should call sexuality by its proper name.

Therefore, the Act of Love is a space-time and place in which Love between two beings is expressed. The Act of Love has a beginning and an end. Do not confuse the Act of Love, which is a divine principle, with marriage, which is an invention of religions. An Act of Love can last a lifetime, a few hours, or years; nothing is forbidden as long as it remains the space and time for the expression of Love.

Marriage is not the Act of Love, and you must free yourself from the mental prisons so patiently constructed by the zealots of religions. The sole purpose of these prisons is to enslave men and women, to maintain the supremacy of the ego over the Soul. If there were to be a sacrament, it would be the baptism that consecrates the rebirth of a person when the Soul masters the ego. Mastery of one's thoughts, emotions, feelings, and desires is required to fully enter into Love, and it is impossible for an infant to have reached such a degree of self-work. Once again, religions have trampled and manipulated the teachings of Our Father. Leave them to their sad fate and return to Love and Our Father.

The Act of Love Is, and it should be the focus of all your attention during your Life. Building Acts of Love to glorify Love, to shape the World with Love, and to purify yourselves until you come closer to Our Father, that is what all men and women must do.

How to Make an Act of Love?

There is an Art of the Act of Love because each Act of Love is a work to the glory of Our Father. Therefore, it is an Art that humanity must fully discover. There are no specific rules for the Act of Love except the foundation that it must be a full and complete expression of Love between two beings, between a feminine principle and a masculine principle.

Building an Act of Love begins with self-work because mastering your feelings, thoughts, desires, and emotions is essential. The Act of Love is a gift, and the ego hates it, so the ego should not interfere or interfere as little as possible. The ego doesn't know how to Love; it only knows how to take and plunder. To enter into an Act of Love, you must be willing to undertake this work. Like any learning process, it will come with time, patience and experience, and the first Acts of Love will be attempts, while the last ones will be great masterpieces.

The ego doesn't know how to Love. The ego is afraid of Love. The ego will do everything it can to annihilate the Love within you. The misfortunes in Love for human beings could be summed up in this struggle within them, between the ego and the Love that Our Father gives to every human being. Therefore, Love must prevail over the ego for an Act of Love to begin.

This first step depends only on you, and no one can do it for you. There are many techniques, and many men have written about ways to master the ego to let the Light that is within each of you shine. Eckhart Tolle has recently contributed a lot to this teaching, and his books and speeches can be of great help. Love, Peace, and Joy are on this path.

Once you have begun to take the first step on this path towards mastering your ego, you can start to experience the Act of Love. The first step is generally to accept the journey, to undertake this task and journey.

The beginning of an Act of Love is an encounter, and don't worry, it will happen. If you are on the path, it will happen, and if you don't know how to seize it, perhaps due to fear generated by the ego, then others will be offered to you.

This encounter allows you to feel those wonderful things called simulacra. Simulacra have been explained, especially by Epicurus, a long time ago. A simulacrum is made up of subtle particles that are exchanged between two beings. It's a subtle communication, that little something that makes your gaze rise or turn to discover a face, a presence. Focus as much as you can on this moment, be there, be in the present moment.

Listen to your Heart and silence your brain. If you let the thinking machine and the ego take over, it will be a missed opportunity for an Act of Love. If you let your Heart guide you, then the Act of Love will begin. Remember that sex should never be the ultimate goal. The Act of Love is the ultimate goal, and sexuality may or may not be a part of it.

The Act of Love is the apprenticeship of your Heart. You will learn to listen to it. You will learn to sense and feel the simulacra. You will learn to use the intelligence of your brain in the service of Love and your Heart. You will give Love without expecting anything in return and receive even more. Immerse yourself in the Act of Love with your body and soul.

The end of the Act of Love

The Act of Love has an end just as it has a beginning. This end is like its starting point, a moment of Love. A beautiful conclusion, the last page of a magnificent book, the final stroke of a painter on a canvas. The Act of Love concludes in Love.

Divorce is a corollary invention to another invention, which is marriage. Religions have all trampled upon and manipulated to control humans. The end of the Act of Love is normal and should be nothing more than a final moment of Love. It is only Love that allows the conclusion of an Act of Love to be in Peace and Joy.

Misery, tears, anger, and all these afflictions have no place in the Act of Love, whether at the end or at any other time. It is precisely because one must have found, or at least glimpsed, Love to be capable of ending an Act of Love in Love that the duration of the Act does not matter. If the conclusion of the Act of Love is Love, then everything has succeeded; both beings emerge from it grown, strengthened, and serene.

And if there are children to be born, they are the fruits of an Act of Love. The Act of Love will end, but in Love, and these children will carry this Love with them. When the Act of Love Is, when Love Is, then children carry within them the traces and seeds of the most beautiful Love. They have nothing to fear because Love is there. They and their progenitors can create other Acts of Love because, understand this well, the Act of Love is a gift. Those who have received Love in this way, either by participating in it or by being its fruit, will have this Love with them for eternity.

No child of Our Father can lack Love. No child of Our Father is forgotten. All children of Our Father are Loved, and this is forever. Those who are capable of realizing and building Acts of Love will give strong and pure Love to those who come as the fruit of this Love.

The end of the Act of Love comes naturally; it is guided by Love. This end may be the disappearance, the return to Our Father, of one of the two. This end may be a magnificent final simulacrum. This end may be the continuation of Love in another form. The end of the Act of Love is gentle, peaceful; it marks an achievement. It is full of the Joy and Peace one feels when looking at a completed masterpiece.

The Act of Love and the Simulacra

The simulacra are those exchanges between beings that are impossible through physical matter. They are exchanges between the spirits, the Souls, of beings. Simulacra are the vibrations of subtle matter. Subtle matter has its own physics and laws; we will speak of metaphysics to say that it is beyond the physics of heavy matter.

Simulacra are at the heart of the Act of Love. They form through interaction with thoughts, emotions, desires, feelings. They are initiated by a look, a gesture, an attitude, etc. They are the richness of the world of the silence of Love. Simulacra have almost no limits; they ignore time and place, and their speed is both zero and infinite. It is so because the moment it is born, it is already everywhere. Simulacra move in the void, or more precisely in what has no form, in what is everywhere, in the infinite and eternity. Their speed is zero because they do not move, they are, and by essence, they are everywhere.

Filling the world with the most beautiful simulacra is one of the results of the Act of Love. And it is especially through them that the heavy matter, that of Bodies and the Earth, is shaped.

Ancient philosophers, especially the Epicureans, "discovered" simulacra using their intelligence and reasoning abilities. They did not have microscopes and yet understood the existence of atoms. They did not have equipment to listen to brainwaves, and yet they understood the existence of simulacra. We will come back to this later; just understand that just as light and sound exist in the world of heavy matter, simulacra exist in the world of subtle matter.

During the Act of Love, each being generates numerous simulacra, and it is these that must be sculpted with Love. These simulacra will make the beauty and strength of this Act. Every thought, every feeling, every emotion, every desire contributes to it. The purity of Souls is essential, the strength of the Heart is cardinal.

Simulacra nourish the one who receives them because it is an energy of Love that manifests in them. Think back to the warmth that engulfed you at the sight of someone you love...

Simulacra are felt throughout the Body and the Soul. You must learn to feel them, and you will discover that sexuality can contain much more than you think.

The Act of Love and sexuality

Sexuality is an important subject, as religions quickly seized it to manipulate humans as they pleased. Religions invented the scourge of chastity, which allows them to destroy men and women who might otherwise have become magnificent Sons and Daughters of Our Father. Chastity is a foolish, hideous invention that should be quickly forgotten. It is the product of a diseased mind and a Heart taken over by the madness of the ego.

Sexuality is important but must not be the ultimate goal of the Act of Love. The expression "making love" to refer to sexual intercourse is inappropriate, and it should be replaced with "having a sexual relationship" or any other expression that suits you. Sex is not Love. Sexuality is a potential component of the Act of Love, but it must not be reduced to that.

Sexuality is a possible aspect of an Act of Love; it is not an obligation. Fabulous Acts of Love can exist without a moment of sexuality, while others may include several or even many such moments. In short, nothing is forbidden as long as sexuality remains in its place, a potential component of the Act of Love.

Men and women have been highly creative when it comes to sexuality, and it is essential to distinguish between what is dangerous and what does not involve love-making. The principle is Love. Imposing something on another person is not and should not be. The Act of Love is an agreement between two fully conscious, awakened beings, and therefore, no sexual practice that is not mutually desired should take place.

Each man and woman has their own story, their own path, and what they must experience in this incarnation in the dense material world. Men and women are free; they can choose to follow one path or another and, consequently, must bear the consequences of their choices. They must learn to feel what is right for them in this lifetime, and no one can or should replace that experience.

There are no prohibitions regarding sexuality; the limit is Love, and sex for the sake of sex should not be. Those who engage in sex purely for the sake of it will suffer the consequences in this and future existences.

Let us be very clear: sexuality can be part of the Act of Love. The Act of Love occurs between two fully conscious, awakened beings who are in agreement. The abuse of another being to satisfy an uncontrolled impulse will result in serious consequences. Those who commit violence, stoning, or mistreatment will also suffer the consequences of their madness. Those who believe that men are superior to women and that women must obey are foolish. Women and men are equal and free.

Sexuality must remain in its place. The notion of conjugal duty, the idea that marriage obliges for all eternity, has no place. The Act of Love is the only principle; everything else is the product of a diseased mind.

Everything always comes back to the essential principle of Love, and sexuality should be an expression of Love. Everyone should find Joy, Peace, and all the sweetness that comes with it. It is up to each individual to do this work and compose their Acts of Love with their Heart and Intelligence.

Try to conceive of sexuality as another moment of giving within the Act of Love. It is not about taking a Body or possessing it; no, it is about giving Love through a sexual relationship. Bestiality has difficulty fitting into this context. Cruelty cannot be a part of it. Reflect on how to give Love within a sexual relationship, and you will discover that sexuality can be a very rich moment filled with simulacra of Love.

The Act of Love and Light

The Act of Love is designed to lead the men and women of this World to glimpse The Light, this Light that emanates from the Love of Our Father.

Light is the offspring of Love. Light has sprung from the Love of Our Father. Light is the source of Joy, Peace, and also of Love, the Love of mankind that will become the pure Love of Our Father. The loop is closed. Light is the daughter of Love, and Love is the daughter of Light. Infinity and eternity are here.

The Act of Love is the instrument, the tool, to lead humans to enter this virtuous circle. Once they have entered it, they will begin to transform this World into an extension of Our Father's Kingdom.

Do not seek anything complicated in the meaning of Life, for Life comes from Love and Light. Life is an extension of Love and Light. Life only makes sense if you see it as the place for the expression of Love and the extension of Light. To Love is to live.

No human being can completely deny what is within them. If they darken themselves so much during their life that they almost completely forget this Light and this Love that is within them, then they will rediscover it on their path after Death. Death is nothing, it is just a transition to Our Father's Kingdom. Life continues because the Kingdom is Light and Love. Certainly, it is not a place where heavy, physical matter is expressed, but it is more real and true than that of this heavy matter. The world of heavy matter is a gateway, a first airlock to The Light of Our Father.

The Act of Love is there to help men and women understand Love, to experience it. It is not said to be an easy thing, and nothing of value is easy. Effort has value. Willpower is an indispensable instrument in the eternity and infinity of Life.

To be in the Light, you must be in Love. A Love that is giving. A Love where the verb "to take" has no existence or meaning. A Love without expectation. A Love that is free and selfless. Light will manifest along your path; watch the darkness of your thoughts, desires, emotions, and feelings to know if you are on the right path.

The Act of Love should guide you towards sensations that bring you closer to this Light. Sensations, simulacra, should lead you to feel Peace and Joy within yourself, and in turn, within your partner.

The Act of Love and Life

Life is a subject that should interest and intrigue men. What is Life? Seeking to understand what Life is, is embarking on a quest for profound, permanent, and essential truths. How can one give meaning to their Life without knowing what Life is? What can you comprehend about what happens around you if you do not know what Life is?

Life originates from Love and the resulting Light. Life comes from Our Father; He holds it within Himself. It may seem absurd, but it is so. Just as the spider produces the thread to weave its web, Our Father weaves the Universe by taking Love into Himself, and it becomes Light.

Life is eternal. Life has no end and cannot have one due to its origins. What Lives, Lives for eternity. Life exists through heavy matter, the matter of this Earth that you know, but also in all other forms of matter and what lies beyond matter.

The Act of Love is what constitutes a part of Life. Life is meant for understanding Love, for creating Love, and expanding the Kingdom of Our Father. The infinite feeds on the infinite expansion of Love. Eternity is Love. But all of this may seem whimsical and delirious. What do you know about Life? Do you know why this Heart beats? Do you know why it will stop one day? Do you know what Death is and what purpose it serves? Do you know how and when Souls incarnate? Do you know where Souls are before becoming a Son or Daughter of Our Father? In reality, what do you know?

The study of Life should be your primary concern alongside Acts of Love. If you study Life, you will begin to glimpse a harmonious complexity, a grand order that results from a plan. There is no chaos, no randomness or chance; there is only Life and the Laws of the Universe.

The Act of Love is what makes living complete. The gift of Love is the essence of Life, and everything in Life is there for that purpose. Everything in Life is Love. Everything in Life is there to increase Love through the Act of Love.

If you want to live, if you want to give meaning to your existence now, then enter into the Act of Love, enter into the study of Life. You will find no contentment, no lasting satisfaction, no happiness, no Peace, and no eternal Joy without accepting the Act of Love and Life.

Life and the Act of Love obey the great Law of Universal Causality. Everything is a consequence. What you do determines what will be. There is no randomness or chance. Everything is governed by this essential Law, and even Our Father cannot break free from it!

Men and women are free, and they are free forever, but their actions, thoughts, desires, feelings, and emotions involve the Law of Causality. Nothing happens that does not originate from an action, a thought, etc. Do you understand the necessity of learning to master your mind?

Do not think that Life only takes into account your actions; no, thoughts are stronger than actions! Thoughts persist beyond actions; they spread; they are a creation of mankind. Learning to master your thoughts, emotions, desires, and feelings is essential, and it is one of the functions of the Act of Love.

The Act of Love is here to teach you about Life and what you will experience for eternity. Life is a continuous path; there is no loop, no reincarnation, and even less the resurrection of the flesh. Once Life is on the path, it unfolds for eternity until the ultimate return to Our Father. Returning to Our Father, this ultimate return, is not the Death you will know, but it is the ultimate stage of Life's evolution when it becomes pure Love again.

You will live, and do not be afraid; who you are will remain. Oh, you will evolve throughout your path, which goes far beyond this short passage in the heavy matter of Earth. What you do not want to learn here and now, you will learn later, but it will only lengthen your path.

You will have several "lives," many "lives," as your path progresses, but you will not return to Earth, or at least not in the same way, and in any case, much later because it must finally become an extension of Our Father's Kingdom.

But then, what are these "lives" of misery that are promised to some for their foolishness? Some cannot begin their path to Our Father after Death because they must first understand their foolishness and waywardness. They will remain there, around the Earth, bathed in Love and Light until their Hearts finally open.

Ultimately, everyone progresses, and the time spent understanding one's mistakes depends on the work done during one's existence in the heavy matter, the Love each leaves on Earth, the prayers that will be made, and one's Heart. There is no hell or heaven; there is only Life.

The Act of Love and Your Life

The practice of the Act of Love is essential to your Life because it is through this practice that you will discover its meaning. Pindar's "Become who you are" cannot be conceived without the Act of Love. Our Father is Love; you yourself are Love, and if you do not discover it, if you do not experience it, then you cannot understand or become who you are.

Certainly, your Life is filled with obligations linked to the constraints of human societies and the hell that humans have allowed to take root in this World. One must earn money to survive, and violence reigns everywhere. All of this is merely the consequences of men's Freedom, and it is up to them to ensure that it is no longer so.

Remember, the Law of Universal Causality is undeniable, and nothing, absolutely nothing, escapes it. It is inescapable, and everything that happens, even the simplest events of your daily life, depends on it. Chance, luck, none of it exists because everything is ordered.

The Freedom of men lies in their ability to influence the overall direction of humanity's path as they understand their destiny. There are external factors because the Earth and Nature are as free as men are. Humanity cannot act without having to bear the consequences of those actions. The Earth and Nature are free to act to protect themselves and maintain their balance.

Everything is simple, everything comes back to the Law of Universal Causality. Do you want to change your Life? Well, then change your thoughts, your emotions, your desires, and your actions, and that is why the Law of Evolution exists.

Everything changes, everything evolves, eternally. Animals, humanity, Nature, the Earth, all evolve and change. The Law of Evolution governs this, and there is nothing that exists in this World that will not disappear to be reborn in another form, an evolved form.

Religions harm your Lives because they ensnare you in absurd constraints in an attempt to solidify their power and lead this World to its downfall. Evolution is real; it is a Divine Law, and it is clear that religions and their fanatics have misunderstood the Genesis. The Law of Causality Is, the Love of Our Father Is, and you can see that there can be no hell, devil, or any of these nonsense beliefs.

Love reigns. It reigns over the Universe and must reign over your Life. Fear only one thing: those who claim that Our Father is not Love. Abandon all these religions to oblivion because, in the end, that is where they will end up, discarded by humanity, into the dustbin of horrors.

The Act of Love is essential to your Life because what it sets in motion through the Law of Causality is powerful, strong, and will allow you to progress on your path to Our Father. The more you practice the Act of Love, the more you will feel its consequences and begin to participate in this virtuous circle.

Do not be afraid of Love. Do not be afraid to let yourself go to Love. Fear these religious fanatics; fear those who want to cover your Hearts in black garments. Move toward the Light, follow the path of Love.

The Act of Love and Colours

Colors, you might think they are insignificant because, after all, a color is just a color. However, if you knew the importance of colors, you would pay much more attention to them. Colors are Light; they are an expression of what makes up Light, and they should be chosen with great care.

Would you be willing to eat anything, anytime? Well, that's what many people do with colors, even though they are a form of nourishment. Humans should learn to pay attention to Colors, especially those they wear, as they interact with their Body and Aura.

Let's start by addressing the most harmful color, the one that is not a color and that humanity will eventually abandon: black. Black should be avoided because it is not a color. Black represents all the plagues that weigh down this world, and it is not without reason that religions have seized upon it.

Wearing black is to deprive oneself of energies and isolate oneself in a vast void where one's energy drains away. Black is like a gateway used by the Shadow to feed itself. It took great perversion and force to turn this horror into a symbol of elegance.

Beware of humans who only wear black. Beware of those who want to dress you in black or, worse, lock you in a prison of black fabric. You must return and stay with colors, those of the Rainbow, because that's where you will find nourishment and balance, both for yourself and for others who see you.

White is the antithesis of black; it represents the All. It's the default color, suitable for all occasions. You can dress your Acts of Love in white, and you will always be sure to do well. White should be the color that all the children of this World wear.

White possesses all virtues, and it is the expression of balance and power. It acts as a messenger of Our Father. What is the color of Angels? White.

Red is a powerful color because it symbolizes Love. Red elevates the Heart and tenderness. It is a color to be worn when your Heart seeks Love or is full of it. Those who feel unloved should wear red, lots of red.

Green is the expression of tomorrow; it is a call to Providence and a reinforcement of your prayers. Love green and look at Nature; why is it so green? There is a tomorrow full of Light for the Earth, and Nature calls for it with all its might.

Yellow is Wisdom, that immense and great virtue. Look at the stars, look at the Sun; why are they yellow? The Sun possesses immense wisdom; it is a source of Light, warmth, and unconditional glory for all. Seek yellow when you need to understand and reflect. It is the color of beginnings and endings for Acts of Love.

Blue is Peace, that gentle, peaceful, and great Peace that is within you and awaits its arrival at last. It is a color to wear to soothe this world, to find your inner path, and calm tensions. Blue is a natural color of Acts of Love in their most beautiful moments. Why is water blue? Why is the sky blue? Look at a lake, an ocean; there is great Peace, strength, and a calming presence envelops you. White clouds in a blue sky...

Purple is a gentle color that symbolizes forgiveness, loss, and letting go. It is the color that should be worn on days of funerals to signify forgiveness for the one who has just crossed the threshold to the other side. Purple is there to assist you when you must make that magnificent effort called Forgiveness, when you must transform into Love what is not.

Orange is the expression of Life, happiness, and Joy. Happy people should wear orange to communicate their Joy to all those beings who languish in the darkness of black. It is the ultimate warm color, the one that beckons others. The Sun plays with orange in the mornings and evenings to show its Joy for a dawn that is a new beginning or a twilight that is a dawn.

Beyond the basic colors, endless variations are possible. Indigo, pink, and more—humanity should drink from Colors, adorn itself with Light, and thus bear witness to what it truly is: the Child of Our Father.

There are also colors invisible to the human eye, these Lights that it will discover later in other times and places.

The Act of Love and food

Love is not consuming the other. Love is not taking because Love is the act of giving. To nourish yourself with Love, you must give. Give sincerely and selflessly. Our Father will take care of nourishing those who give Love, and they will be without hunger or thirst for eternity.

The Body, on the other hand, requires sustenance derived from the dense matter to renew itself and function properly. This sustenance largely comes from the Earth since your Body originated from there. Your atoms have belonged to countless animals, plants, rocks, or humans before becoming the Body that is yours today.

The Body needs wholesome nourishment, respecting what it is: your home on Earth. Your Body is an extension of who you are; it is an extension of Love. Through it, you can shape and act upon this dense matter. Nourishing a Body that is an extension of Love, nourishing a Body that is your home, nourishing a Body that is a part of Nature must be done with Love.

The foods you consume are important because their atoms become your atoms. Would you accept just anything in your home? Would you hang hideous paintings on your walls? Yet, that's what many people do today by ingesting anything and everything.

There is a Shadow that delights in producing everything that can defile humanity and thus slow its journey towards Our Father. This Shadow relishes cigarettes, sugary sodas, drugs, and unhealthy fast food consumed at breakneck speed. Dirtying the Body is one of the Shadow's goals because it knows that this degrades humanity.

Nature contains all the treasures necessary to nourish humanity. Nothing needs to be added, altered, or invented. Those who believe they can be smarter than Nature are mistaken and will one day face the consequences of their folly. Humans must Love Nature, and in return, she will generously provide the sustenance they need.

Love must permeate what you consume. The foods you eat should have been grown, harvested, and prepared with Love. A meal prepared with Love is always a source of energy, far removed from the trash served in fast-food establishments.

Those who sow, care for, nourish, and harvest must do so with Love for Nature, out of Love for their brothers and sisters, and out of Love for Our Father. If Love is present, the harvest will be abundant; otherwise, drought and plagues will come to decimate it. Nature reigns, and it is up to humans who utilize it to show her respect and Love.

Once a Body is tainted and degraded by this junk food, it should come as no surprise that diseases proliferate. The Body rebels against this pollution and your lack of Love.

Learn to Love your Body; learn to nourish it with foods that have grown in Love and have been prepared with Love. There is no need for any of the rituals invented by these abhorrent religions. There are no forbidden foods. The only rule is that of this World: Love.

Nature can easily feed all of humanity without the need to pollute, slaughter species, or cut down the last trees, etc. If humanity truly begins to Love Nature, then there will be no hunger or thirst that cannot be satisfied.

Bread, wine, and oil are important, and their place in writings and in all civilizations should not be overlooked. The hand of man makes wheat, vines, and fruit flourish. The hand of man transforms what has been harvested. Strength transforms, imbues, and gives something that is a testament to Love.

The Act of Love and Children

Love can be the place of procreation, and it should be the only place. Procreation is a consequence of a sexual relationship, and for the Soul that will come into the World, it is important that its Body be imbued with Love.

The Soul of the Child only enters the Body at the very moment of Birth. Abortion is not giving Death; abortion is a painful act because it is tearing away the flesh from the flesh, but it is sometimes necessary and beneficial. It is preferable to destroy an inadequate physical vessel or a place that cannot be bathed in Love as it should be.

Life is independent of the Body. Life is eternal and infinite. The human Body is merely a place, albeit an important one, where Life incarnates for its work on the dense matter. Love is essential, and every Child should be the fruit of Love, raised in Love to become the Son or Daughter of Our Father they are meant to be.

Religions, these hideous inventions of mankind that insidiously do everything to deny Love and instill hatred, anger, difference, and blood, want many Children, and none of them to be born out of Love. They do not want beneficial abortions, as they wish for Souls to become lost in the Shadow they nourish. They do not desire Love but rather teach Fear and Sin to punish the flesh and control the Mind. No rituals are necessary, at most a symbolic baptism of rebirth as a Son or Daughter of Our Father on the day it happens. Children must be raised in the deepest and greatest Love; this is what will eventually save this World.

Children are the first incarnations, Souls becoming form. Remember, reincarnation is a human invention, and, if you truly reflect, you will understand it makes no sense. The Child is a new messenger of Our Father's Love. If Our Father did not Love humans, no child would be born into this World.

The Child is not there to please a woman in her role as a mother or a man in his role as a father. The Child is not a social status symbol that parents flaunt in their pursuit of supposed values and pride. The Child is King, and parents must understand their crucial mission.

Too many men and women decide to have Children for themselves, to comply with social or moral laws. Far too few of this World's Children are the result of Love. Procreating and raising a Child requires both parents to invest themselves fully and completely. It is neither solely the mother's role nor solely the father's role. Both must invest equally and with the greatest Love for this Child, this new Soul. It is an immense responsibility towards humanity and Our Father. The sorry state of the World illustrates how little you have understood about Children, Love, and Education.

If you cannot give all the Love a Child needs to receive, if you cannot choose the Child over your own desires, then it would be wiser not to have a Child. Humanity will eventually understand that Birth is sacred, and one cannot let just anything happen.

All those men and women whom the zealots of religions have pushed into monasteries, convents, seminaries, and other such places must free themselves from this dreadful yoke. They should return to this World, draw from their Love for Our Father to have Children, and use their devotion to raise them in Love and on a path of Light.

Anyone who indoctrinates, who arms a Child, who abuses, who stones or molests a Child, who commits any act that harms a Child's Love, commits the gravest of acts. They will have to embark on a path of penance to realize the enormity of their foolishness and seek forgiveness from Our Father.

Overpopulation will naturally come to an end when humanity finally understands the importance of Children.

Love these Children, Love all Children; the entire humanity must be the parent of all Children, just as Our Father is the father of His only Son.

The Act of Love and religions

Humanity committed a monstrosity by inventing religions. Nothing in the words of the messengers of Our Father gives such instructions. It took greed, stupidity, madness, and the darkest of feelings for men to create these horrors. No religion, absolutely none, is that of Our Father, and humanity must abandon them as quickly as possible. Religions and their zealots despise Love and what Our Father represents. They abhor the Act of Love.

These hideous inventions have caused over two thousand years of war, violence, hatred, and bloodshed. Humanity has not done anything good since these insanities were invented. Look at this World, look at these hatreds, these oceans of blood, this intolerance, this foolishness, this Shadow blocking the Light. That's what religions are: the greatest danger ever invented by humanity.

No religion is that of Our Father. The zealots who invented and propagated them have either perverted, distorted, or misappropriated the Word or invented it entirely. No religion should dictate anything to men and women; only the Love of Our Father can. Our Father has no need for these monstrosities that order killing, stoning, claiming some of His Sons and Daughters are infidels, casting anathemas, inventing rites more dreadful than the last, and so on. Flee from these monsters of hatred and madness; leave them all, without exception, to wither away. Do not lose yourselves in this dreadful Shadow that futilely opposes the Will of Our Father, for it will be, and religions will vanish.

If there were a religion of Our Father, but He wants none, it would be the religion of the Act of Love. It would be without places of worship. It would be without priests. It would be without a Vatican, a pope, an imam, or a pastor. It would be unique, and there would be only it. The mere fact of the multiplicity of religions, their violence, and intolerance over these two thousand and twelve years should be enough for you to understand that none of them comes from Our Father!

How could it be possible that Our Father, who is Love, who gives Love to all without exception, who gives this Act of Love to humanity as a philosophy and a principle of life, has given something that even once causes war, violence, hatred, and bloodshed?

How can men and women, in the name of Our Father, call for Death, murder, differentiation between His Sons and Daughters, hatred, and bloodshed? Do they not realize what they are doing? Can they not understand that they will have to answer for it, and that their path to Love will be that much longer? They are mad, and their Hearts are clouded by the Shadow.

The Act of Love is equality between women and men. Our Father created them equal. One is not superior to the other. Only the zealots of religions would claim such foolishness. Our Father loves His Sons and Daughters in the same way because they are equal.

The Act of Love has no rituals because none are necessary, and every ritual is a danger. Marriage is an invention of religions to try to control humanity. There is no need for temples, churches, or the like; Nature and the Earth are the most sacred places that can exist. Pray under a tree, for it is more blessed than all the cathedrals in this World.

The Act of Love has no food restrictions, no sexual restrictions as long as Nature is respected. To say that this food is not good because religion says so is madness. How could Our Father have allowed humanity to feed on His creations if they were not good? Men have devastated, polluted, and dirtied Nature. They have invented food horrors that dirty, pollute, and degrade the Body. Man can feed on the animals of this Earth, but let him kill them with Love because they are Life just like him, and let him not massacre them, for it is not for him but for Nature to decide. If man fully understood Love, this would be evident; no rules are needed, only an understanding of Love.

The Act of Love has no differences, no need to mistreat the Body, mutilate it, let this grow or cut that; nothing must be imposed upon you. Be what you must be and not a doll that religions dress up to breed difference and hatred. Leave the darkness behind and return to the colors of the Rainbow, for your Heart loves these colors; let it speak and guide you.

Love does not need religions; Our Father wants none. Religions will disappear, and perhaps this humanity will lose many lives by then, but they will vanish because none of them is the Truth, and none can be. Use your Intelligence, your reasoning abilities, and you will see all the foolishness and horror of these religions. Return to Love, for Love alone Is.

The Act of Love and Nature

Nature is here not only to shelter humanity, provide it with a place of existence, but also to serve as an example of Life. Nature contains everything humanity needs, whether it's for nourishment, clothing, or spiritual growth. Everything is given, everything is there; you just need to open your eyes.

Nature produces billions upon billions of Acts of Love every second. The present moment of Nature is nothing but Love; its present moment is an eternal Act of Love. The path for humanity is there. Examples of Acts of Love abound before the eyes of a humanity blinded by its own inventions, such as these horrors of religions.

The Act of Love is a return to Nature and, by extension, to Our Father. Do not seek temples, mosques, churches, or the like; you have all around you the most sacred place: Nature. Places of worship must disappear with religions; they are useless and dangerous because many are infested with the Shadow that gnaws at the hearts of men.

The default location for the Act of Love is Nature. When you build your Acts of Love, go into Nature, walk hand in hand, look at the trees, flowers, birds, the ocean, etc., admire all this Beauty and the Love that emanates from it. Nature is not only a source of physical sustenance; it is above all an indispensable source of spiritual nourishment.

By not respecting Nature, by polluting it, by massacring trees, animals, rocks, etc., humanity is making a grave mistake. Certainly, one can gather and take from Nature for its needs, and it will give with Love, but this must be done with Love and not with greed, foolishness, arrogance, and violence. What can humanity expect from a Nature that will eventually revolt to restore its balance?

The Act of Love is there to guide humanity towards a relationship of Love with Nature. Nature is a setting in which humanity must deposit an infinite number of Acts of Love, each more beautiful than the last. Nature, filled with all this Love, will then yield fruits that today's humanity cannot even imagine.

Nature provides for what is necessary for humanity and the blossoming of Love. Sometimes what it gives may not be understood by humanity because what is given can sometimes cause Death. This is necessary for humanity to understand. The wheel of Wisdom needs these relative notions of good and bad to turn. Nature is governed by the Law of Causality, and men govern a part of it through their actions, thoughts, emotions, desires, and feelings.

Humanity must return to Love, perform Acts of Love, and give its Love to this Nature that gives without counting.

The Act of Love and Time

Time is necessary for the heavy matter of this World, but it is useless for subtle matter. Time in itself does not exist, and the only thing that exists is Now. Eckhart Tolle explains this very well, and you should read or listen to him.

The Act of Love is timeless in the sense that its results, what it produces, exist in a dimension where time does not exist. The Act of Love creates Love, and Love is timeless. This may seem abstract and requires effort to be understood, but ultimately, all men and women will understand one day.

Time has only one meaning: "one day." This World is a vast school, a necessary passage. A unique passage because reincarnation is an invention of religions, and like all the inventions of these horrors, it serves the purpose of enslavement. Life is continuous; it never goes backward, and every Soul moves forward on its path that goes far beyond this World and the next. Death is just a door between two existences of the same Life.

The Act of Love, therefore, has little connection with time, and thus its duration is what it must be. The Act of Love can be short, long, fast, it doesn't matter because it says nothing about its quality, strength, and Beauty.

The only thing that matters in the Act of Love is what is Now, in the present moment. You cannot be in an Act of Love and elsewhere. An Act of Love is not necessarily continuous; it can consist of a multitude of "moments," or if you prefer, small Acts of Love.

Time has only one purpose: to lead you to realize that it is useless. When you can live without a watch or time, you will have understood. Until that happens, it is a tool that teaches you to listen to what is, to grasp the essence of eternity and infinity that is the present moment.

The Act of Love is lived in the present moment. Of course, you can plan beautiful things, anticipate and organize, and it will surely be very beautiful, but the Act of Love unfolds in the present moment, in the Now, and that's where it leaves its mark forever.

The Act of Love and Life

Life, with a capital "L". What is Life? Where does it come from? Is it the result of a "miraculous" chance? Is it the product of intelligence from another planet? What is Life? What is its connection to Love?

Life is Love. Life is The Light. Life is what Our Father gives by drawing Light and Love from Himself. Nothing that lives in the Universe comes from anywhere other than Our Father.

The first organisms - made of heavy matter - lived on Light, that of the Sun. Nature is patiently built by drawing from Love. The Law of Evolution is Universal and Divine. Charles Darwin only observed a divine principle. The Law of Evolution and the Law of Causality have worked together since the beginning.

The Life given to you is, therefore, the daughter of Love, the daughter of Light, and thus, it needs Love to progress and expand. The need for Love, the search for Love simply comes from there. What is Love seeks Love to extend Love.

The Act of Love is the Act of Life. It is by practicing the Act of Love that you will see Life and understand that your life is part of this Life. Life is One, and all lives are facets of Life.

The Act of Love is the Act of Life because it is through it that you will create Love and thus increase Life with your own richness. Life is infinite and eternal because it continues to expand through Acts of Love.

Our Father wants only one thing: that His Kingdom, which is Life and Love, be. Humanity is here to contribute to it by practicing the Act of Love and thus shaping Love in matter, in this World.

The Act of Love and Effort

Do you know who you are when hatred, anger, violence, and jealousy take hold of you? What remains once these thoughts, feelings, and emotions have ravaged and burned everything? Why seek to dominate others? Why strive to possess, take, and thus attempt to feel superior to others? Where is Love in all of this? Nowhere.

The Act of Love is the care, the universal medicine, the one that allows a woman or a man to find their way again. The wide and tempting boulevards of feelings, emotions, and thoughts of violence and other afflictions of the heart lead nowhere. They are only paths of perdition, from which you must return at the cost of a long journey.

Mastery over thoughts, emotions, desires, and feelings is something that humanity must learn. Love requires effort, giving requires effort, giving without expecting anything in return requires effort. Anger, violence, and other afflictions require no effort; you only need to surrender to them and let yourself be led by the nose.

The Act of Love is a lesson that hides many treasures. Wisdom is one of them. Peace, that great lake of inner calm, is another. Joy, that emotion that lifts you above all human foolishness and connects you with nature, is yet another.

By practicing the Act of Love, by seeking the gift of love within it, you will find your path to mastering your thoughts, emotions, feelings, and desires. It is an effort, a task, and procrastination will not help you; accepting the easy way will take you back to where you started, or even further. Every learning process requires effort, and the beginning of any learning journey is the will.

Does humanity have the will to return to Our Father? Is humanity capable of the effort that the Act of Love requires? Few are today, but their numbers are growing. Time is ticking for humanity; it always will until time becomes irrelevant, and the Law of Causality governs what will happen, perhaps, to humanity if it does nothing to set a different course.

The Act of Love will prevail. Women and men will eventually achieve mastery over their thoughts, emotions, feelings, and desires, and this will be a fundamental lesson for every child. Our Father's Will shall be done. The uncertainty is the path that humanity chooses, and it depends on the effort it is willing to make now.

The Act of Love and Fidelity

Love and the Act of Love go beyond the simple relationship between a companion and a partner, between the masculine and the feminine - in whatever form it may take. The Act of Love extends to Nature, to Children, to the Universe, to Souls, in short, to all Life. Everything that lives needs Love and the act of giving Love.

An existence is composed of multiple Acts of Love that interweave. The goal is Love, the gift of Love, and anyone who seeks to receive, to take, is on the wrong path. An Act of Love always begins with a gift, free, generous, and nothing else.

The only fidelity you owe is to Love, to Our Father. If you are faithful to the Love of Our Father, then you will be on your path. Remember, it is both an effort and a gift; be vigilant.

The multiplicity of Acts of Love does not authorize anything and everything. Sex for the sake of sex is a scourge and is not Love in any way. Sexuality has its place in some Acts of Love but not in others. To this day, humanity remains partially immersed in a sordid Shadow that has been carefully woven and perpetuated by these horrors of religions. The inventions of these religions, whether it be marriage, chastity, excommunication, anathema, etc., have plunged humanity into ignorance and madness.

The path to Our Father is one of Love, one of generous and free giving of Love, one of expecting nothing in return, of seeking nothing from others but just giving one's Love to others as one would want them to give their Love to us.

What is Love is disinterested in all expectations. One who supposedly wants to give Love to get something, with an ulterior motive, is not in Love but in the darkest of Shadows.

An Act of Love that lasts a few seconds, with a glance and a smile, can illuminate the present moment for eternity. Those who Love, those who are sincerely in the Love of Our Father, do not need further explanation about fidelity and morality because it flows from the source of Love. For others, they need only to seek to give and expect nothing, want nothing, attempt nothing, and they will see what the Act of Love can produce.

The Act of Love and Truth

What do you know? Perhaps you have read many books and undergone lengthy studies. School may have filled you with knowledge or perhaps cast you aside. In the end, what do you know that is unchanging, true through the ages?

There is little Truth, and it is where we must begin because all knowledge derives from it. The foremost of all Truths is that Our Father is Love. Everything hinges on this. Understanding this Truth is understanding Life in all its intricacies. The sum of knowledge lies in this: Our Father is Love.

Nothing that Is, nothing that is Truth contradicts this primary Truth. The Law of Causality is there so that Love begets Love. The Law of Evolution is there so that Love guides toward Love. The Act of Love is there so that Love shapes the heavy matter.

Religions and their tangled mess of hatred, violence, and perversion are not Love. They are but hideous inventions of humanity, the work of a few madmen. Humanity must let them die to return to the Truth: Our Father is Love.

Every man and woman is Loved by Our Father. All are equal and Loved in the same way; there is no difference.

The Act of Love is there to lead humanity to feel this Love from Our Father that resides in every man and woman. It is by practicing the Act of Love that each being will nurture this magnificent Love, and its fruits will be Love, which will increase and extend Love.

Seek nothing complicated, no obscure principles, no twisted machinery to understand the Universe. Love, in all its forms, governs the Universe. The Force of Love, the Light, and so on, all derive from Love.

Remember just one thing: Our Father is Love because that is what will guide you for eternity. In the infinite, there is only one Truth, and that is it. Depending on the place, the World, this Truth may have daughters, but the source is there.

Forgiveness

What do you believe you have understood from these past two thousand and twelve years? What wisdom have you gained? Has humanity built a place of Love, Peace, and Joy? Look at the work of humanity. Open your eyes and what do you see? A Nature that has been massacred, polluted, and soiled, oceans of blood fueled by hatred, violence, intolerance, and religions. This is what humanity has done in the course of two thousand and twelve years. This is what you have done since Jesus of Nazareth and his teachings. What are you expecting now?

Forgiveness is the other face of the Act of Love. There is no Love without Forgiveness, and the one who does not know how to Forgive does not know how to Love. Forgiveness cannot be separated from Love. There is no Act of Forgiveness because Forgiveness is Love; there is only the Act of Love.

All of humanity needs to begin a great Forgiveness. A great Forgiveness to transform into Love all the horrors it has produced, all its acts and foolishness that have led it down this dismal path. It will take great strength, and many women and men must put their whole hearts into initiating this great Forgiveness, liberating an incredible energy of Love.

Forgiveness acts upon the Law of Causality, or more precisely, Forgiveness is here to correct a path that would be difficult and full of misery without it.

I have spoken to you a great deal about Love, and it is crucial for you to understand that Forgiveness and Love are one and the same. They are inseparable. You cannot separate one from the other; you cannot know one without knowing the other. Humanity needs to begin with Forgiveness to transform its path.

Forgiveness is given by plunging into the Love of Our Father, which is within every woman, man, and child. This Love that everyone has forever. This flame of Light that everyone carries within them. It is there, among other things, to initiate the fire of Forgiveness, the fire that will cleanse and transform into Love.

Humanity's path leads through this Forgiveness, and it has the choice to either initiate it through its own understanding or come to it painfully through the reactions of Nature and the Earth.

The Alchemy of Forgiveness

Forgiveness is not precisely what many believe it to be. It is not merely a verb placed in a sentence to utter or request forgiveness. Forgiveness is a profound act that calls upon the full strength, willpower, and wisdom of the heart. It is an act of infinite power that takes what is and transforms it into Love. The ultimate alchemy is this: Forgiveness. Forgiveness is what transmutes everything into Gold, into Love.

Forgiveness is essential to understanding Love because it embodies the essence of giving. Forgiveness is given, and nothing is expected in return from the one to whom it is given. Forgiveness is the weapon of the powerful, the wise, and the Daughters and Sons of our Father.

It is with Forgiveness that one can Love humanity, both past and present. Forgiveness allows access to the recognition of the Love within every man, woman, and child – one must not confuse the ego, foolishness, and what others truly are.

Everything can be Forgiven because everything is and will be Forgiven. The Last Judgment of the Bible is not the end of the world, nor is the Apocalypse; they are but expressions of the grand final Forgiveness when humanity stands at the threshold of our Father's Kingdom. The Earth will become this Kingdom, and nature will exult in Joy, Peace, and Love.

Remember Jesus of Nazareth, who on the cross said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." The essence of Forgiveness is there, the union with Our Father's Will, Forgiveness is the source of unconditional and eternal Love. Our Father is Love, and Forgiveness is His strength; everything will be Forgiven, but all men and women must understand Love and return to it. The path to Our Father includes what is necessary for each to open their Heart and move forward. There may be misery, difficulty, and distress if it must be so, if the Law of Causality dictates it through one's actions.

Knowing how to Forgive is essential above all for oneself, as it is how one opens their own Heart, how one connects with the Light within themselves. To Forgive, one must go and commune within themselves with this Love, this Light, and emerge far from hatred, anger, and other plagues with this force of Love.

Forgiveness is not easy for the one embarking on the journey, but if it were easy, what value would it hold? Man has a long road ahead of him to return to Our Father, a path on which the Earth is only a small stage, a starting point.

Learning to Forgive Oneself

It is essential to learn to Forgive oneself for the mistakes one has made. Bearing the consequences of one's actions, thoughts, feelings, and desires is inevitable because it is governed by the Universal Law of Causality, and no one can escape it, not even Our Father. Choosing Forgiveness is a free act, an act of will that sets in motion a series of positive consequences. Knowing how to Forgive oneself for one's ignorance is essential, knowing that one is Loved by Our Father, regardless of what one has done or thought, is what allows this Forgiveness.

There are no bad men, no bad women, no unbelievers, no non-believers, no infidels, etc. There are only Children of Our Father, and all are Loved and will always be, no matter what they do until the day of their awakening, their rebirth. The most terrible of men, the one who has committed the most abhorrent crimes, is still Loved by Our Father, and that is what will lead him back to Him.

The first Forgiveness is therefore the one that comes from awakening, it is the recognition of all the mistakes one has made while in the ignorance of the ego. The first Forgiveness grants access to the Love of Our Father, it opens the heart and sets the human back on their path.

One must Forgive not only their actions but also their thoughts, desires, feelings, and emotions because they are more real than actions.

Knowing how to monitor one's ego's thoughts and others is the first action that comes from self-Forgiveness. The ego is the illusion that takes control as long as the consciousness of the Soul cannot express itself with sufficient strength. It takes very little, and sometimes quite a lot, for the will to let it be to prevail. The perversion of the heavy matter lies in the ego. It is matter that still needs to be shaped by Love to become what it must be.

Forgiveness allows one to return to their path at any time. Imagine the horror of the Universe without forgiveness! Imagine the horror if there were no means for those in ignorance to return to Our Father! There is neither hell nor paradise. There is only Love and Forgiveness. Those who claim that hell exists have not understood anything and are mostly religious zealots who try to use this fear to manipulate beings. Their ignorance is terrible for themselves above all.

No human being should fear Our Father, for there is no reason to fear Him. Our Father is Love, and each being is and will be Loved for eternity. Each being will eventually access this Love to Forgive themselves for their ignorance and return to Our Father. If there is to be a human justice, it must be one of Forgiveness, one that allows us to return to Our Father, a justice of the Sons and Daughters of Our Father, and nothing else.

Humanity is still far from being able to render such justice, but it will come. For now, every man must seek his own Forgiveness and the Love of Our Father; for the rest, the Universal Law of Causality will act.

good and evil

In the grand tapestry of existence, the concepts of good and evil are revealed as transient illusions, serving a purpose that extends only until humanity's complete awakening. Just as time will eventually fade into obscurity, so too will the notions of good and evil. What will replace them, you may ask? Well, it shall be Love, for Love has no need for the constructs of good and evil. Good and evil are merely tools for imparting Wisdom, guiding men and women toward Our Father.

Good and evil are relative. There exists no absolute good or evil. What is considered good by one may be perceived as evil by another, and vice versa. Each facet serves a purpose, allowing every human to progress on their individual path. The Universal Law of Causality bestows consequences upon actions, thoughts, feelings, emotions, and desires. Depending on one's perspective, the outcome may be deemed either good or bad, and one may revise their judgment multiple times throughout life's journey.

Consider how what you once judged as good one day may transform into evil the next, as consequences continue to unfold. Good and evil are mere illusions; the only true essence lies in Love and Forgiveness.

Good and evil are the two faces of the force that propels the journey of Wisdom. At times, you may perceive the head as good, and at other times, you may see the tail as evil, yet it is the same force, the same entity.

Only the ego requires belief in the concepts of good and evil. The madness of the ego thrives on these illusions. Religions, those abominations, revel in them.

Through the act of Forgiveness, especially the initial one, individuals discover that everything has conspired for their Awakening, and the illusion dissipates.

Self-Forgiveness marks the end of the ego, the culmination of the illusion of good and evil, in favor of recognizing only Love and Forgiveness. Peace and Joy are the outcomes of this awakening.

Why judge individuals based on illusions? Why employ good and evil for education when the objective, the endgame, is the imparting of Love? Those who have awakened, and there are many now, understand how to share this teaching of Love beyond the confines of religions, transcending good and evil, guiding them on the path to Our Father.

You must grasp that Divine Justice, if such a concept exists, would embody Love and Forgiveness. It would not concern itself with distinguishing between good and evil, for it would have no need for such distinctions. Love and Forgiveness eternally define the Universe and govern its every aspect.

There is Always a Path

No man, woman, or child can afford to remain oblivious to the transformative force of Forgiveness. The initial steps toward Forgiveness mark the commencement of a profound journey into Love. To disregard Forgiveness under the pretenses fabricated by the ego only perpetuates hatred, violence, warfare, and bloodshed. Only Forgiveness can liberate us from this infernal cycle. Yes, it demands strength, willpower, and courage.

Humanity has tread the boulevards of ease for far too long. Religions have paved these roads to be even more alluring, claiming they lead to Our Father, when in truth, they are dead-end paths. Life continuously provides you with the necessary experiences, day by day, to open your eyes, to discover that you are on a road to nowhere, and that you must change course to return to the path of Life, of Love – the one that leads to Our Father.

Forgiveness is the catalyst for swift, if not immediate, transformation. It possesses the capacity to set in motion an immense cascade of consequences, all designed to aid you in retracing your steps. While Forgiveness cannot alter what must be, it allows you to confront the consequences of your past actions, thoughts, desires, feelings, and emotions alongside new outcomes.

Remember, there is always an exit. There is always a path leading back to Life, Love, and Our Father.

The Shadow and The Light

What are the Shadow and the Light? The Light exists, it is immanent and radiant. The Shadow is an illusion, the result of human thoughts, desires, feelings, and emotions poorly mastered. The Shadow persists only through the incessant flow emanating from humanity, which feeds it. There is no hell, there is no Shadow in reality; all of this is merely an illusion of humanity.

There is no battle between Light and Shadow because an illusion vanishes, dissipates, as soon as The Light emerges. In darkness, the mind can conjure many things, and all vanish as soon as The Light is present. This Shadow, so dear to religions, will disappear the moment humanity awakens. If there were a concept of a "Final Judgment" in the sense that many attribute to it, it would be the one, unique, judgment of this Shadow. However, since it is only an illusion, it will evaporate in a timeless instant.

Nevertheless, today the Shadow darkens the hearts of those who choose to believe in it. Religions bear the primary responsibility for this. They need the Shadow to expand their dominion and satisfy their greed, lust for power, and other motivating vices. Why invent hell? Why invent satan? Except to use fear to extend this dark shroud over humanity.

How could Our Father, who is Love, have created such horrors? How could the one who Loves all humans as his Sons and Daughters have decided on hell for some of them? Use your intelligence and your reasoning abilities, and you will see the absurdity at the core of every religion. The doctors of religions, the fanatics of religions, the hierarchs of religions, the politicians have a vital need for them. For over two thousand years, they have been their instruments to lead humanity by the nose and keep it under this dark cloak of Fear.

Their end is approaching because humanity is beginning to understand that they are nothing but nonsense, perversions, and other evils. They will disappear into The Light, the Light of Our Father's Love. Humanity will remember its error, and the time of religions will be definitively over.

The Shadow will lose a significant part of itself with the disappearance of religions. Each human being, by embarking on their path, by discovering The Light within themselves, will lead to the definitive disappearance of this illusion because the only reality is what is Truth, what comes from Our Father, what is Love or created from Love.

We must no longer frighten children with all these foolish stories; we must no longer allow this illusion to creep into children's thoughts at night. Religions and churches have manufactured many dreadful tales to terrorize children and indoctrinate them under the yoke of Fear. We must stop this and teach them about The Light, Love, and Forgiveness.

Neither heaven, nor hell

In the realm of spirituality, it is crucial not to conflate the concepts of Shadow and Light with the inventions of religions: hell and paradise. The Shadow is an illusion, a mirage born from the heat of the darkest thoughts, emotions, feelings, and desires. Paradise and hell are nothing more than concoctions of religions. They needed something to control and influence people, so they fabricated hell and paradise, along with everything that comes with them. These are conscious, deliberate, and calculated inventions. Do not be misled about the motivations of religions; they have no real interest in Love, and they will employ all manner of perversions and dishonesty to try to maintain their influence a bit longer.

Our Father is Love, and He is One with His Children, who is humanity. All men, women, and children are Loved and will be Loved forever. Everyone has a path that leads to Our Father. There is neither paradise nor hell; there are only paths—some longer than others—that lead to Our Father. No soul will roast in the embers of hell; that idea is nothing but madness, an invention that makes no sense whatsoever.

True Faith, not the faith of religions, arises from Intelligence. Any person can rediscover Our Father, Love, Light, and more by simply using their Intelligence, their capacity for reasoning, and by observing Nature. Everything is right there before everyone's eyes. You just need to look and contemplate.

Religions have devised concepts to discourage people from thinking for themselves. Religions zealously control the education of children and parents because they fear Intelligence and Nature. Religions can only thrive in ignorance, foolishness, and deep indoctrination. No free and intelligent being would accept the nonsense promoted by religions.

So, leave them where they are, with their notions of paradise and hell, their sermons, their churches and temples, their absurd rituals, and so on. Return to the Light, to Love, and embark on the long and magnificent path of Life, one that goes far beyond earthly existence, one filled with Love that will lead you to Our Father.

The Shadow and religions

Who are you, advancing in the Shadow to disturb the Hearts of men? Do you not realize that they are all Children of Our Father, and your mission is destined to fail? The Shadow will vanish, and all will see you. You must grant yourself Forgiveness and accept what you have done. Your path will be long, and undoubtedly challenging, leading you to Our Father. However, it is the path you, and you alone, have chosen. It is within your power to change it now and return immediately to Our Father.

Humanity should have compassion for all these religious zealots, for these beings who have lost themselves in the labyrinths filled with traps of religions. They will eventually emerge, either in this existence or the next, for beyond this Earth, there is no more religion. There never was. Some may carry memories of religions with them, but it is time for them to comprehend their folly and enter the realm of Forgiveness.

The end of religions will mark the retreat of the Shadow, for the Light continues to grow on this Earth. More and more men and women discover that spirituality is far too essential a subject to entrust to these religious zealots. True spirituality, the path to Our Father, requires no religion. The Light points the way, and many are following it.

Those who are imprisoned by religions in monasteries, seminaries, convents, and similar places must break free and embrace life. Let them come to the Act of Love, have children, and raise them far from religions, in the Love of Our Father. This will emanate a magnificent Light and cause the servants of the Shadow to tremble in their churches, temples, mosques, and elsewhere.

Faith and Intelligence

Light is the daughter of Love. Light emerges in the strength of Love. Only Light truly exists, and all matter depends on Light. Illusions, fears, horrific inventions – all these form the Shadow. Light comes from Truth, from Our Father. The Shadow, on the other hand, arises from ignorance and foolishness, which is why Intelligence terrifies it.

The Shadow and its servants fear Intelligence. They dread the possibility that humanity might start using its Intelligence to observe and reason, for the day they do, humanity will comprehend the madness of religions, the insanity of hatred, the frenzy of bloodshed, the madness of vengeance – the furious insanity that has gripped this world for over two thousand and twelve years.

Believing in the Light, having faith in Love, is simply the result of Intelligence. Nature is right before your eyes, and human beings possess extraordinary brains. That's all that is needed. Look at the flowers, the trees, the rocks, the oceans, the birds, and so on. Observe Nature and contemplate it. Rise early and embrace the sunrise with your eyes and your Heart. Everything is there, in proportions that render this book both ridiculous and unnecessary.

Faith is the offspring of Intelligence. Ideally, men should read no books until they have awakened their Intelligence through Nature. To have faith in Our Father is to have glimpsed the Light, even if only a fraction of it. Faith is knowledge; it is applying your Intelligence to understand what Is. All civilizations have discovered the Light; some have gone very far. Look at ancient Egypt, over three thousand years ago, and then one day, the Shadow, and then nothing.

Your Intelligence should be your guide; your book should be the one written by Nature because it contains everything. Work with your Intelligence; use your powers of reasoning by observing Nature. Feel, listen to your sensations, learn to go beyond words that are merely signposts. Words are good servants but poor masters, and the Shadow loves these purely thought forms that ruminate far from all Nature.

Meditation is an important tool because it compels you to transcend thoughts, to go beyond the infernal mechanics of the ego. It enables you to feel that flame, that Light within every human being. Meditation is reflection; it is using your Intelligence, far from the noise of the ego. Open your eyes, open your hearts, and let your Intelligence guide you, far from the ego, towards Our Father.

Who to believe?

Why should you believe what I write? Why believe me more than anyone else? You are not asked, or at least not to believe blindly and foolishly. Religions have already caught you in that way. What is asked of you is to pause and use your Intelligence. Listen, read, go for a walk in Nature, place your hands on a tree, watch the bird, and use your Intelligence.

The Light will come, and it is a revelation. A revelation that every human being must feel deep within themselves. The path that leads to this revelation is that of Life, Love, and Intelligence. Believe in nothing, but feel what is within you. Perhaps you won't achieve it today or tomorrow, but every day, reflect and observe Nature.

This is what you need to do, nothing more, and many men and women have already begun. This World is gradually lighting up, and it is high time because Nature will not hold much longer. Humanity can still influence the necessary response of Nature, but time is running out.

The end of religions

The time for the end of religions has arrived. Humanity has begun to detach itself from them, and at the same time, spirituality is emerging all over the Earth. Intelligence is progressing, and religions are receding. They will eventually disappear and be relegated to the museum of humanity's horrors. Religions had their time and showed humanity that nothing should be given to any man, organization, or group that belongs to Our Father.

Nature is present, and it is the only sacred place, the only messenger that humanity must always listen to. I myself am nothing, just a scribe who observes, discovers, and accepts being guided by Life and Light. Everything is in Nature; it is the channel, the means of communication with Our Father.

Religions were conceived, invented by sick and mad men. They misappropriate the messages of Holy men or wrote from their own madness to claim themselves as rulers of humanity. Religions attracted the sick of ego and the craziest men, precisely those who had strayed the most. Oh, there were some men who were on the path to Our Father, and we owe them a few beneficial schisms like gnosticism, sufism, etc., but this remained marginal, and it's time for humanity to move on.

Religions have caused two thousand twelve years of unhappiness and madness. They have shed blood in infernal proportions. They have defined political systems, taken control of people, defined nations and borders, armed soldiers, and more. These are the signs of religions inspired by Love, you might say. This is the argument they try to put forward to hide their disgrace.

Not a single religion is that of Our Father. Not one. No religion is Love. No religion holds the Truth. None and never. So leave them where they are and go for a walk in Nature, for it is under a tree, looking at a flower, a bird that you will meet Our Father. You will never find anything in these churches, temples, mosques; you will only find Shadow in all its forms. You will only find illusion but never Love or Truth.

Religions have invented much and lied to humanity to try to maintain control. They use unprecedented violence to try to save themselves, but it is in vain because the end is here. Heaven and hell, good and evil, the devil, satan, reincarnation, the resurrection of the flesh, etc., are all lies and inventions to create fear, justify the status quo, and avoid questioning their supremacy.

They have all played with what Death is to try to impose their reign and control over men. And in their delirium, they invented hell, paradise, and everything that goes with it, such as the devil, satan, etc. All of this is madness. None of that exists. Life continues, eternally; it is just a path leading to Our Father, to Unity with Him. Life will lead you from one existence to another in many dimensions. This earthly existence, in the heavy matter, is just a starting point on a path that is timeless after Death. Death is nothing, just a passage, a shedding of the body of heavy matter.

So Death is nothing, and Life is everything. Religions are useless and harmful. The few texts that are authentic messages must be cleaned up so that humanity can benefit from them.

Intelligence and reasoning ability should guide you. Do not accept anything that deviates from the example of Nature. Do not accept anything that does not make sense. Remember only one thing: Our Father is Love. Seek confirmation of this. Feel this Truth within you and let yourself be guided by your Intelligence, Nature, and Life.

Neither Happiness nor Misfortune, only Love

"Whoever loves well, chastises well," it is said. How could Love be the source of punishment? Can't we simply give happiness as we give Love? Why cause unhappiness in the name of Love? Isn't that what religions do?

Happiness cannot be given; it cannot come from the outside because it is an inner consequence of other inner phenomena. Happiness is when Joy, Peace, and Love are within you, when you accept to let them be, when you recognize that eternal Light within you.

If there were a notion of unhappiness, it would describe the state of those who have not yet accepted or discovered what is within them. But it would be a misuse of this word, which primarily points to the illusion and the Shadow that looms over this world.

Life brings you the experiences you need to open your eyes. Nothing that happens to you is due to chance or fate. The Universal Law of Causality reigns, and a significant part of what happens to you is of your own making. The small remainder consists of actions of Our Father to bring His Love before your eyes.

So there is no more happiness and unhappiness than there is good and evil. All of this does not exist in reality, in what is permanent and timeless. You should not seek the idea of punishment or reward in what happens to you because that does not exist either. What Life gives you, it gives you with the greatest Love, that of Our Father. Life has nothing else to offer you and will offer you nothing else for eternity.

Life is not there to punish you for anything, but it is you yourself who, through your actions, thoughts, feelings, emotions, and desires, set in motion the Universal Law of Causality, which should, in fact, help you to open your eyes!

Our Father has given you His Love, unconditional and eternal. Life offers you its riches. Nature is the greatest and most beautiful book ever written. The Sun inundates you, day after day, with its warmth, Light, and Glory. Humanity has received everything it needs to flourish in magnificent Acts of Love.

There is no seed of hatred, anger, jealousy, war, violence, unhappiness, or religion in all that has been given to humanity. Nothing of the sort; there is only Love, Light, Life, and Nature. Everything else, it is men who, through their own foolishness, have manufactured these dark illusions.

Why suffer?

Why suffer? Is suffering a part of life? Why make us suffer if we are Loved and Love? The Our Father says, "Deliver us from evil," is this not a request for the end of suffering?

Suffering is nothing more than what you want it to be. Your thoughts transform what is into suffering. Good and evil do not exist; they are as ephemeral as your illusions. Happiness and unhappiness do not exist; the only reality is Joy, Peace, Love, and Forgiveness. Suffering arises from the interpretation of what happens in life as good and evil, happiness and unhappiness.

Accept what life gives to each person because it is what they need and also what they have provoked through their actions, thoughts, feelings, emotions, and desires. However, this does not mean not to act, not to help, not to lend a hand. On the contrary, once you have understood who you are, grasped the magnitude of the Joy, Peace, and Love within you, you will be of immeasurable help to others. You will no longer see suffering but rather ignorance, ego, and its foolishness.

The suffering and horror in which this world is immersed are the fruits of the last two thousand and twelve years. Humanity has allowed the madness of religions and men to reign unchecked and engage in all possible abominations.

The end of suffering comes from the end of ignorance, from awakening. Those who set out on the path to Our Father no longer know suffering as anything other than the memory of their ignorance. Peace, Joy, and Love have forever replaced suffering in their hearts.

The deliverance from evil by Our Father is this book and the other writings and messages of my Brothers and Sisters. Our Father gives humanity guidance, clear and strong elements to awaken it from its stupor. And yet, humanity already has before its eyes the most beautiful and comprehensive of books: Nature.

Seasons and elements do not cause suffering to Nature because they are Nature. The wind, rain, storms, and everything else are Nature providing for its needs. If there is any suffering in Nature, it is the suffering inflicted upon it by the foolishness of humanity. Nature accepts humanity's ignorance, but it still does what is necessary to maintain the balance of Life on Earth and show humanity the path to awakening.

Humanity, not understanding what Death is, cannot comprehend that Nature does not seek to cause suffering; it is simply living its own Life. Through their actions, thoughts, feelings, emotions, and desires, humans have initiated what is happening and will happen because Nature has no choice but to obey the Universal Law of Causality.

Perhaps Nature's responses will be interpreted as abominable suffering by humanity, but humanity must awaken and look at its history, collective actions, thoughts, feelings, emotions, and desires. Then it will see Love, Our Father's Love, despite His sadness.

The Effort to Love

To Be Loved does not mean that nothing should ever happen, that no learning is necessary, that no effort is required. No, on the contrary, because Love, Peace, and Joy are fruits that are earned, that nourish and beautify according to the efforts you make.

Life is a path that brings you back to Unity with Our Father. Each of us is One with Our Father; this great and unique One is the Son of Our Father. The return of the prodigal son from the Bible is the message, the parable. Humanity experiences, learns, wanders, and will return to Our Father.

There is no paradise or hell, there is no devil or satan, there is none of that. Humanity's path involves only its ignorance, the illusions it creates, but all of this is ephemeral because the path leads to the Love of Our Father and to Unity with Him.

On your path here and later, you will continue to work on becoming what you are until you reach this Unity with Our Father. Have no fear; everyone will get there, no one will be left by the wayside, no one will go to hell because it does not exist.

Depending on what each one does, thinks, desires, feels, the path will be longer or shorter because each Soul, each Being, must forge itself according to what is necessary. Look at Nature, the flowers always end up blooming, but each has its own rhythm, and it is the same for humans.

This path requires effort, especially here in this world of heavy matter, but it is an indispensable learning experience. Open your eyes and look at this world, Nature. Feel everything that a sunrise brings and gives. Enjoy all the wonders that are around you, and you will see that suffering and ignorance will disappear. Immerse yourself in Acts of Love and shape this world, bring the Kingdom by transforming this world into a place of Love, Peace, and Joy.

You think in eternity

The thinker is not always you. Thought is more powerful than actions and can accomplish immensely more than an army of men. But the one who thinks is not always you; no, often it's your ego, that illusion produced by the brain. Eckhart Tolle describes this very well, and you should read his books or listen to him. I have nothing to add or subtract from what he says on this subject.

The power of thought comes from the fact that it is creative and exists in the subtle matter, and therefore possesses a force beyond comparison with that of heavy matter. Subtle matter, simulacra, thoughts, all of this is real, has permanence. The slightest of your thoughts will be eternally accessible to you, and the same goes for your feelings and desires. Thus, you understand the importance of learning to control them and dispelling the ego by bringing forth the Light within you.

Certainly, you will Forgive yourself, and others will Forgive you for all your foolishness, and you will draw all the necessary lessons from it, but still, everything will accompany you for eternity. You can never erase what you have thought, your desires, your feelings; all of this is forever inscribed in the realm of subtle matter.

Body and Soul

The Soul and man, are they dissociated? Why oppose the flesh, the Body with the Soul? What happens beyond the Body and within the Body?

The Soul is eternal, and the origins of the Soul are a lengthy subject, but it suffices to say that Our Father gives birth to it within the womb of Love. The Body is an essential instrument for shaping the Soul and guiding it into Life. Earth is like a cradle; it marks the starting point of a long journey back to Our Father.

The Body possesses great intelligence, and the Soul should not deny this intelligence but rather tame it to learn and understand. The Soul doesn't know how to breathe, but the Body does. The Soul doesn't know how to make the Body run, but the Body knows. It's a partnership, and the Soul must respect the Body.

The Body has this exceptional organ called the brain, which serves as the focal point for the Soul, as well as the rings of subtle matter energies that envelop the physical Body derived from heavy matter. The brain is the place of exchange between the Soul and the Body, but this remarkable and powerful organ has a danger: it can think on its own. This is how it can become the dwelling place of the ego. I recommend reading or listening to Eckhart Tolle for a comprehensive understanding of the ego. Understand that the ego can come between the Body and the Soul if allowed.

The Soul's work is to grasp matter in its simplest form, which is heavy matter. Once this is done, it can progress to learning about subtle matter, and so on.

The one who thinks within the Body must eventually become the Soul because only the Soul knows Love, Joy, and Peace. The ego only knows illusions because it is itself an illusion, something ephemeral. That's the foundation. The Act of Love helps bring this about and is essential in shaping heavy matter, in its transformation.

The Body is a fabulous instrument, and humans must respect it. The Body is a part of Nature given to each individual, like a garden. Would you throw your trash into your garden? Yet millions of humans pollute their bodies with cigarettes, soda, and other toxins. Would you pour buckets of oil into a river? So why do you continue to pollute your blood with all these toxins?

Disease is only a reflection of the mistreatment inflicted on your Body. Look no further. Repairing the Body, which has suffered damage or mechanical failure, is an achievement of humanity. However, no medication will cure diseases of the Body; only the Soul can. Medications are not useless, but humanity should understand what Water is, along with other fundamental aspects of Body function.

Nature is the Body, and it will provide what is necessary. Don't hope for the end of diseases because the Universal Laws of Evolution and Causality will ensure that diseases appear as needed. The end of diseases will come on the day of humanity's complete awakening, the day of Our Father's Kingdom's advent.

Reread Michel Odoul's books, which explore the connection between disease, Soul, and Body. Look into ancient healing practices where the link between the elements was understood. Continue your research but with open eyes. Listen to Wisdom.

Water is an essential and widely misunderstood principle by humanity. The world had a genius on this subject in the person of Jacques Benveniste, and what did you do? You destroyed him, burned him at the stake, even though he had begun to show you the way!

Understand that the essence lies in the relationship between what you are and the Body. This relationship must become harmonious. The Soul must take the reins and illuminate the illusion that is the ego. It's work, an effort, but it's indispensable, and the transformation of humanity is inevitable. However, the path to get there is the choice of humans.

The Body, the Soul and sexuality

The Body needs sexuality; it should not be repressed through absurd chastity. However, sex for the sake of sex is a scourge. The right balance is for sexuality to be a part of the Act of Love.

Religions have caused enormous harm to humanity by playing with the concept of sexuality. Some have treated it as a work of the devil of their own invention. Others have used it to target the feminine principle out of fear of its power. Forget all the nonsense religions have propagated about sexuality and look at Nature. Look at the diversity of mating behaviors that occur in Nature. All, without exception, have been intended by Our Father. Forget the Kama Sutra and open the book of Nature.

Sexuality is the union in the flesh, within an Act of Love, of the feminine and masculine principles. Both principles are equal. Both principles are, in fact, consenting because this takes place within an Act of Love. Remember, sex for the sake of sex turns you into something lower than the most backward animal in the entire Universe. The Act of Love is the place, and sexuality is an expression in the flesh of the Love mutually given by a feminine and masculine principle.

The Body and Nature

The Body and the air you breathe, the Body and the Sun that bathes it in its light, the Body and the fruits of Nature that nourish it. The Body is one with Nature and the Sun. Nothing in this World could exist if the Earth, Gaia, as some call her, did not provide for humanity's needs.

The Body does not belong to man; it is entrusted to him by Nature. One of the lessons is to learn how to manage and maintain one's Body, whatever it may be. The illusory reality of this World is the Body, an image among images, an illusion among illusions. The Body is ephemeral, but the Soul is eternal. The Body is a tool, an instrument of learning, and man must take care of it.

The Body allows you to learn what thoughts, emotions, feelings, and desires are. The Body is a magnificent machine that records thoughts and translates them into emotions, reactions in the heavy matter, and also into illness.

Man is his Body, but his Body is not man, and this is what the brain alone is incapable of grasping. Beyond verbalized thought, there is the rest of the Universe, the infinity and power of simulacra. The Soul must enter the Body, and thus bring it Peace, Joy, and the Love of Our Father. The Body allows all of this to be transcribed into emotions, sensations that the young Soul must understand.

A common misconception is that there are old Souls incarnated in heavy matter. Reincarnation does not exist; a Soul is a Soul, and reincarnation would be madness because the Soul would no longer know who it is. The Soul takes "form" on Earth, it is its journey in the world of forms, of heavy matter, and it will not return there. The Soul has an identity, it is You, the one who looks at the thinker and who will finally become the thinker in the Body. There are only young Souls on their path of Evolution on Earth. The Universal Law of Evolution does not have a loop; there is no reincarnation.

Reincarnation is useful to the ego, to religions; that's why this nonsense was invented by men. It allows confusion to be sown, to explain anything in any way to maintain control and justify the unjustifiable.

The Body passes and departs; there is no resurrection because Life is eternal and the Body is ephemeral. The resurrection of the flesh makes no sense; it is yet another hideous invention of religions.

The human Body is a strong and powerful creation of Our Father and Nature. The human Body could only have come about through a long process ordered by the Universal Law of Evolution. Charles Darwin is entirely correct, and it takes the madness and ignorance of the fools of religions not to see this.

The Bodies of men will continue to evolve; Nature takes care of it. Man must return to the sacred connection between his Body and Nature. Man in his flesh is only a part of Nature, and he must understand all its richness and diversity. Everything in Nature is useful; everything in Nature evolves and will continue to evolve. Yesterday and tomorrow do not exist in Nature; there is only Now. Thus, man must become present in Nature, for this is how the Body and the Soul will become harmonious.

The Respect for the Body and Nature

Who are you, you who dare to massacre, ravage, soil, and pollute Nature? Do you believe that Our Father created it solely for man's amusement in this way? When you mistreat Nature, it is your own Body that you mistreat because your Body is an integral part of Nature.

The Body is born of Nature, and it renews itself within her throughout its existence. Every atom has its place, every cell has its place; everything is ordered. What you eat, drink, and breathe becomes your Body; there is nothing else to bring new atoms and replace those that depart over time. You are what you eat, drink, breathe, and apply to your skin.

Humanity goes astray when it believes that its horrendous creations have no impact on it. Cigarettes, sodas, adulterated foods, polluted and stale air, and more – all of this ends up in the Body and has effects.

It is astonishing to see the lengths some go to in defending Nature, in tending to a piece of garden, while at the same time ingesting anything and everything recklessly. The first thing to do is to take care of your Body, regardless of the one that has been given to you because it is your parcel of Nature on this Earth.

When humanity believes it is a creator, a dominator of Nature, it commits a colossal mistake. Nature is free. Nature is also governed by the Laws of Causality and Evolution. Nature will react, and humanity will have to understand that it is a part of Nature and that it must respect it.

In the past, Nature has had to react, and civilizations have had to discover that Nature is all-powerful. This humanity is dangerously astray and is setting things in motion that could lead Nature to react strongly. Time is running out, and it is urgent that humanity regains a minimum level of respect for Nature to avoid facing Nature's strong reaction.

Nature wishes no harm to humanity; like Our Father, it is Love. However, every action has its consequences, someday, and humanity cannot play with fire without fearing an immense fire one day. Even today, Nature is giving warning signs that its patience is nearing its limit.

Nature

Nature is the chosen setting by Our Father for His Son, which is humanity. Today, humanity behaves like a unruly and irreverent child. The prodigal Son has wandered far from His Father and discovers the suffering and fear he inflicts upon himself. Humanity will return to Our Father, one way or another. This "one way or another" is essential because it means that humanity has a choice.

Nature is the nurturing setting, the guardian, and the schoolmaster of humanity. Nature contains everything to nourish, heal, and guide humanity on its path. One who can no longer see Nature can no longer see the Earth, this World, and Our Father.

Man believes he is all-powerful, when it is Nature that is all-powerful today and tomorrow as well. Man thinks he can shape Nature according to a mental logic and order, but he does not see the Intelligence hidden within what he calls chaos and disorder. Each flower grows in its place, each tree has its role, nothing is the result of a hypothetical chance, everything is ordered and will always be.

Man treats trees as toys, planting them here and chopping them down the next day under the influence of his ego. Felling a tree is killing a tree, and it must understand why man needs its flesh. Humanity must respect Life. Humanity must respect Nature. Humanity must not be led by the madness of its ego and destroy, massacre, and burn Life, Nature. What would humanity do if another species regarded it as a plaything? Would it not revolt if its offspring were killed like that? Yet, that is what humanity has been doing for two thousand and twelve years.

Nature is Love, and she is full of compassion for humanity, but her role is to preserve the balance of Life and provide for what is necessary for humanity. She will do it, surely sometimes with the sadness of knowing that it will take time for humanity to understand why she had to act in this way.

Humanity can still act and return to Nature. Time is running out, but it is still possible. Humanity can put down its axe, its fire, and stop its bulldozers to sit in front of a sunrise and gaze at Nature... Humanity can do it, some men and women are doing it, but it is up to humanity to choose.

If one day Nature takes action

What will happen to humanity if one day Nature acts to restore the essential balance of Life? Will it be the end of the world? Who will survive?

The end of the World does not exist; it is an invention of religions and the foolish who, once again, manipulate the ignorance of men to control them. Nature will eventually take action because it is always in action, silently working to prepare and nurture what will be necessary for Life in the future.

Humanity will survive any movement of Nature, just as previous generations have survived. Certainly, there will be deaths, and some will mourn their wives and children. There will be disbelief and sadness among those who do not understand. Nature will have done nothing more than follow the Law of Causality, and humanity's actions, thoughts, feelings, and desires will have played a major role.

The Kingdom of Our Father will come to this World. Heavy matter, under the influence of the Love of men, will turn into Light. Until that day, until the end of time when time becomes unnecessary, humanity must freely choose its own path. Ultimately, humanity will find the path that leads to Our Father, but only humanity can make that choice freely and willingly.

The deceased will join their brothers and sisters in the other dimension to continue their journey towards Our Father, each on their own path. They will not return to Earth, at least not in the form of heavy matter. Do not worry about them, but pray for them. Pray that they move forward without fear towards Our Father. All of this was just a small step in the eternity of their Lives.

Humanity must come to accept what it is: a Child of Our Father. Humanity must understand this on its own, and it has been on this journey for a long time, beyond any memory or conception of what any man can think or understand in his brain.

Nature is the guardian of humanity, its protector. Nature educates humanity by showing it the path and examples of life. Open your eyes! Everything is there for you! All you need to do is open your eyes, the eyes of your heart, the ones that see Love.

The Universe

What will happen to this world on a distant day when the sun implodes? Why do planets come into being? Why does the Universe bother to exist? What is Life?

The Universe is an expression of Love. Our Father created it by embodying this original Love, this raw material within Himself. The substance of His Love became Light and gave birth to Worlds. No one can comprehend the Universe without returning completely to Our Father.

The perfection of this Universe, where everything has been established according to a divine plan, is eternal. Humanity cannot alter it; humanity can only trigger a reaction - minuscule when you consider the Universe - from Nature to maintain the conditions for Life.

Worlds are created and undone according to Our Father's divine plan. This world of heavy matter is and will one day cease to exist, but that is nothing because all of this is just heavy matter. You only see the Universe from one of its aspects, that of heavy matter. Humanity is eternal; it is the Child of Our Father.

Life is given by Light, by Love. To understand what Life is, one must first find what Light and Love are. Humanity still has much to traverse to reach a new stage of its evolution, but it is on the path. The madness and foolishness of men slow it down, but of their own accord, they will eventually return to Our Father.

Humanity should not worry about the material aspects of its existence because Nature provides for them. Humanity must become Nature's disciple, listen, learn the lessons, hear the reprimands, see the Love, and then everything will come.

The bird does not concern itself with what it will eat tomorrow, and Our Father, through Nature, provides for its nourishment. It is the same for humanity; if it collectively lets go, then everything will come, Love will be, the Kingdom will be.

Man possesses nothing

Why can't man dominate Nature? Well, because man's Body is part of Nature. His Soul is a divine principle that animates the heavy matter of the Body. Nature reigns over the Earth, and the folly of humanity makes it believe that it is the master of Nature. This is not the case, and every time humanity loses its way on these dead-end paths, Nature intervenes.

Man is here to learn, and Nature is his teaching book, his playground, his classroom, his teacher. Everything is in Nature, and she is everything to man. Nature encompasses all living creatures, from Earth itself to the simplest organisms. Everything is alive. Everything is Nature.

So, with his Body, man is just a small part of Nature. He cannot dominate because his brain, his mind, will never have the means to understand everything about Nature. Therefore, humanity must rightly consider Nature as sacred.

Certainly, man can draw from the riches of Nature to nourish himself, clothe himself, protect himself, but he must do so with great respect and profound intelligence. Massacring, soiling, polluting, burning without reason, etc., all of these are unworthy acts of humanity that set in motion a series of consequences. Man cannot avoid the consequences of his actions, thoughts, feelings, and desires.

Man thinks he owns this rock, this tree, this mountain, this piece of ocean. Man invented borders and nations that kill each other for a rock. A madness, an absurdity encouraged by these horrid religions. Does man label the clouds to say which ones are his? Does man label every air molecule to say which one is his? Does man give nationality to the birds too? It is a madness in which humanity has locked itself, and it will have to break free.

Nothing that exists here belongs to man, at most, he enjoys it for a fleeting and brief time. Nothing he possesses can be taken beyond Death. Despite all his madness, man possesses nothing, or more precisely, nothing other than Love.

So, it suffices for these wars over three pebbles, for this blood that flows for an imaginary line on a map that is already false the moment it is drawn. Man possesses nothing. Man is Nature's guest, and he must respect it.

The Fruit

The fruit is the result of Nature's effort; it took time for it to ripen. Look at this fruit and consider how much it represents. Do not throw it away, do not treat it as if it were nothing, just a fruit, but look at it and say thank you to Nature.

The magic of the fruit should make men realize the power of Nature, but no, man ends up thinking that he makes the fruit grow! Let Nature decide otherwise, and man, with all his knowledge, will obtain nothing, not even the smallest fruit. Did man invent Nature?

Fruit, vegetables, roots—everything that Nature produces is there to nourish humanity, so why slaughter animals? Why feast on blood and animal flesh? Why inflict death on these animals? Certainly, man can defend himself against a mad animal, just as Nature can defend itself against a mad humanity, but what pleasure is there in causing the death of another creature?

Man cannot go to the market and decimate the animal kingdom like this. Each species has a specific role, a purpose, and it is not for man to decide. Man can take animals if he truly has no other choice, but he must do so with all the discernment and respect required.

Nature produces more than enough plant-based wealth for humanity, so there is no need for extensive breeding and nameless holocaust. If humanity uses its intelligence to understand Nature and how to become its ally, its servant, there will be more food than humanity could ever need. Humanity makes serious mistakes by playing with the genes of Nature, and it alone will pay the price.

Man must reclaim his place in Nature and start working for her, with her, because that is how it should be. Man's Body is a part of Nature, a part given for a fleeting existence. Man must begin to respect Nature by respecting his Body and then opening his eyes to the wonders that Our Father has given to Nature.

The Sun: Source of Love

How beautiful Nature is! How rich and diverse! How Nature is Life itself. That is what humanity should think in the morning when watching the sunrise. There is nothing more powerful than that first light of day, a day that is eternity and yet never the same.

Humanity must understand that the Sun is the protector and guardian. Without it, there is no Nature, no humanity. The Sun bestows its warmth and light upon all, unconditionally. You can put as many beings as you want on Earth, and they will all have their share of the Sun. The Sun is the greatest symbol of Love given to humanity and Nature.

When a new child is about to be born, sometimes their older sibling worries about losing their parents' Love or receiving less of it. Parents should explain to them that Love is like the Sun. When their little brother or sister arrives, will they receive less sunlight while playing in the garden? No. Well, Love is the same. They and their little sibling will both receive all the Love they need. What's even more beautiful is that they will create Love between themselves to give back! Look at the Sun and understand the Love it gives to all without exception. Become like Suns, sources of unconditional Love.

The place where Nature prepares tomorrow

The soil, the Earth is the place where Nature prepares tomorrow. It is in the depths of the Earth that what will be born later is being prepared. Earth is the nurturing mother, the one who gives birth to Bodies and forms, its atoms are everywhere, its subtle and heavy matter is in and around every creature.

To spoil, pollute, and massacre what the Earth has brought forth and given to Nature are acts that cannot remain without consequences. What would you do if your neighbor threw their trash into your garden? Wouldn't you eventually go and tell them that enough is enough, that they need to change their attitude and way of acting? It is the same for humanity in relation to the Earth and Nature. Patience has its limits, Life will be preserved under all circumstances, even if it causes the death of thousands of men.

Life is sacred, Nature and the Earth are the cradle of Life, and humanity cannot act as it pleases with them. The warning signs of the need for a profound change in humanity's behavior are present, but one cannot open the eyes of those who want to remain blind. The blind person who allows themselves to be led by other blind people will eventually fall into a deep pit, and this is what awaits humanity if it does not react quickly.

Nature contains everything that humanity needs, and all it takes is for humanity to open its eyes, start working in collaboration with Nature, and famine will disappear. Everything is there for humanity; all that's left is for humanity to open its eyes, cast aside these hideous religions, and finally begin to return to Our Father.

Our Father

Why is humanity afraid of Our Father? Religions have done their dirty work by excessively tarnishing the name of Our Father. They have perverted His Word, invented things for Him, and lied in the most grotesque and absurd ways. They have completely discredited themselves in the eyes of many men, and because of their actions, men have become afraid of Our Father. The madmen who rule over religions will have to answer for their deeds, and there will come a day when the Vatican and others will be nothing more than old fields of ruins left to thorns.

Religions have led humanity down the path of spiritual death when the Earth should, on the contrary, be the place of awakening. The strength of Our Father, the power of what humanity is, has lifted the egos of power-hungry and money-hungry madmen. Religions are nothing more than hideous inventions that cast a shadow over the Earth and distance men from Our Father.

It is normal that men, in the madness of religions, have become afraid of Our Father. Look at these oceans of blood. Look at these tortures, murders, and infamies. Look at this hell, and this devil, invented from scratch. Look at this hatred projected against the infidels, the unbelievers, and other fantasies used to label those who, in fact, are One with them, their brothers and sisters. How can one not eventually say that this God is as insane and sick as those who rule over religions?

All these religions know that Our Father is none of this, but they defy Him. They think they can do as they please. If there must be a notion of non-believer, well, it is all the faithful of religions because they are all in ignorance and the greatest error. They are the ones committing the gravest mistakes and leading humanity down this path of perdition.

God is not Our Father. Allah is not Our Father, etc. None of these names, nor words, is Our Father. Our Father Is. He does not need a name; He Is Our Father. Do not look any further; He Is Life, He Is Love, and He Is Light.

If you absolutely want to dedicate a temple or an altar to Him, then go under a tree, and you will have the most beautiful temple and the most magnificent altar. Do not go any further; this is sufficient for you and brings you back to Our Father. There is no need for any artifice, any rite, any pastor, priest, or imam. Leave all of that to the thorns in that field of ruins.

Our Father is Love, and He Loves all men, from the vilest to the gentlest; all are Loved in the same way. There is no difference; deep down, each man is a child, a son or a daughter of Our Father. They have His Love for eternity, and they will all return to Him.

Our Father is Love

Our Father created humanity, this World, and this Universe. Physicist Stephen Hawking wondered, "Why does the universe bother to exist?" Well, it's because Our Father wants it to. Life comes from Our Father. Life is Our Father. Life cannot be separated. There is no 'my life' or 'his life,' no 'my lives,' no, there is only Life, One and Unique, connecting all living beings.

Man has multiple existences; he progresses through dimensions and planes until he returns to Our Father. Reincarnation is, at best, a misunderstanding of these dimensions. Man passes through the heavy matter only once and only once. The resurrection of the flesh is absurd and invented; it is so unfounded and illogical that every man should immediately understand it.

Our Father is Love, and He created this World, this Universe, and humanity to expand and fill this Love. Love is eternal and infinite. Love creates Love. Love begets Love. What is Love is Love forever. The most wonderful and beautiful invention is Love. Look for nothing else, for there is nothing else to seek. Everything is in Love.

Understand that no book, no word, can define Love. Understanding the full power and strength of Love is not possible at this stage for humanity. Man must experience Love and practice the Act of Love. Humanity must begin to awaken, to change its consciousness, and return to Our Father. The practice of the Act of Love is what will allow humanity to progress on its path.

There would be nothing else to say than "Our Father is Love," everything is in these few words. It is now up to you to discover it by practicing the Act of Love. You must learn to close your eyes, feel Nature, and move forward, take that step towards Our Father.

Life takes care of men, and it is governed by Laws that not even Our Father can change. What has been created has been created and no longer needs to be modified by Our Father. So, do not believe all the nonsense of religions, thus Jesus of Nazareth, my Brother, was born of flesh, lived, and died. Certainly, humanity knows very little about matter, the Universe, and all its Laws, and thus it cannot yet distinguish what seems to be magic or invention from what Is. The time will come when it will gain a greater understanding, and it is through practicing the Act of Love that it will achieve this. You will find nothing in your laboratories if you do not immerse yourself with Love in the greatest and most magnificent laboratory of all, which is Nature.

Man must not be afraid of Our Father because He only wants the return of His prodigal Son to Him. Our Father wants neither religion, nor rite, nor temple; He only wants Love, and nothing else.

To tell you...

Metaphysic

Do you know what your Body is made of? It is water and emptiness. Over 60% of your Body is water, and emptiness, the space between atoms and molecules, makes up most of its volume. How can one understand the Body without comprehending water and emptiness?

Water is an element of great power, and humanity has only scratched the surface of its potential. A genius had begun to guide humanity on this path, but you burned him at the stake, much like the days of the inquisition. Look at what Jacques Benveniste discovered and start from there. The madness of your science is equivalent to that of religions, and like the latter, it can lead you down a path of perdition.

There is no Life on Earth without water. Water is even more important than oxygen, as the composition of the air can change over time, and will adapt to the needs of Nature. What creature can live without water? It is possible to go a long time without food, especially for those who have harnessed the Light, but without water, it is difficult. You must either drink it or collect it from the air, but one way or another, water is essential.

Emptiness is the other component of your Body. Emptiness is essential because it is the space of subtle matter, so your body is subtle matter before it is heavy matter.

Subtle matter is diffuse; it is throughout the Body, and this is how Life comes into the world of heavy matter. There is no separation between subtle matter and heavy matter, but rather an intertwining of the two. The billions of cells and atoms in your Body form it thanks to the action of subtle matter and emptiness.

Revisit the speeches and writings of ancient philosophers, and remember that they had nothing but their eyes, their Intelligence, their capacity for reasoning, and Nature. You will discover their understanding of matter, atoms, emptiness, simulacra, and more. Why is it that what some men understood without any technology remains inaccessible to this modern world? Could it be lacking in intelligence and reasoning capacity? Perhaps scientists should leave their beloved laboratories and take a walk in the forest. Without Intelligence and without observing nature, you will find nothing.

Human science must progress and follow in the footsteps of great men like Charles Darwin or Jacques Benveniste, and forget the approximations of Einstein and Poincaré. Brutalizing heavy matter by dissecting it will bring nothing to humanity; it is an unfathomable folly. The questions posed by Stephen Hawking and the inquiries of neurosurgeons are far more interesting and promising for humanity.

Human science has at its disposal the greatest science book ever written: Nature. None of humanity's problems are insurmountable; all have a solution, and it is right before your eyes... Open your eyes, respect Nature, and let it guide you to the solution.

There is not end of the world

The 'end' of this World of heavy matter is not on the agenda for a very long time, and the heavy matter of Earth still has much work to do. This World will dissolve into the Kingdom of Our Father, leaving behind heavy matter to become nothing but subtle matter.

At Death, man changes dimensions once again, leaving the World of heavy matter to enter the realm of subtle matter. The same will happen to Earth one day, a very distant day, billions of years from now at the earliest.

Nature acts and will continue to act to maintain the balance of Life on Earth, for that is its mission. Certainly, it is not impossible that it may act in a way that could cause many deaths. Humanity should no longer listen to all these religious fanatics who no longer know what to invent to generate fear but should start listening to Nature to avoid a catastrophe triggered by their own actions, thoughts, feelings, and desires.

The Apocalypse of the Bible does not describe the end of the World; it points to that pivotal moment when humanity will have reached a stage of development allowing the subtle to have full control over heavy matter. Judgment Day is merely the great sorting between what must be and what must no longer be beyond that moment.

Research

The subtle matter remains to be discovered by scientists, even though humans have had knowledge of it for several thousand years. Those who limit themselves to the realm of heavy matter alone cannot discover it. Subtle matter is what holds the Universe together with the Force of Love. How can one understand gravity without Love? How can quantum and newtonian mechanics be connected without subtle matter and its Laws?

The Laws existed before humanity, and it only needs to discover and accept them. The fact that these Laws do not please the egos of small men will change nothing. Gravity existed before Newton. Love existed before all matter. Light is the first of all substances. Humanity has not yet begun to tap into the potential of Light; look at how it nourishes Nature and discover all that you have yet to understand.

The brutal and cruel method of dissecting heavy matter will bring no knowledge to humanity. Nothing is hidden; all that is required is to open one's eyes, to step out of the laboratory and discover more in a few hours than in hundreds of years spent breaking atoms. Humanity cannot understand the functioning of the Sun without first grasping subtle matter.

Those who burned Jacques Bénédictine at the stake and those who would do the same gladly to Charles Darwin will not like any of this. They will confine themselves to the narrowness of their egos and madness, and on the day of their death, they will have to begin accepting their foolishness.

Miracles are nothing; they are only the expression of the potential of subtle matter and its dominance over heavy matter. Phenomena that are rejected due to a lack of explanation should, on the contrary, serve to pique interest. Humanity has discovered nothing extraordinary since the ancient philosophers identified the atom, simulacra, and the void.

There is still so much to understand and work on that all scientists would do well to go for a walk, to stop thinking about their egos and their publications, about their fame and Nobel Prizes, about their inventions and future start-ups. They will find nothing with their egos; only deep inner work and a return to the vast laboratory that is Nature will lead them to discoveries.

Illness and the Body

Who are the men willing to be treated by a blind person? And yet, deprived of this physical sense, the blind person had to resort to developing other senses, sometimes those related to subtle matter. One who treats without knowing how to feel, look, touch does not truly know the Body. One who treats without understanding water, air, and Light can do nothing but by chance. One who knows nothing without instruments, without analyses performed by machines, is ignorant.

Current medicine is in its infancy and does not even know why and how some medicines work. The complexity of the smallest cell is beyond current understanding. Water is a mystery. Subtle matter and thought are beyond mystery. In short, this medicine knows so little that it should be marked by the deepest humility. These professors who parade, these egos that revel in money and glory are nothing but ignorance and foolishness.

Oh, medicine is indispensable, and humanity's medicine will continue to progress. Man must treat himself; it is imperative, but he must do so with Intelligence and not leave himself in the hands of so many egos more hungry for money and glory than anything else. The physician is not the one who treats but the one who knows how to prevent, the one who knows when and where the disease could strike.

Humanity achieves great feats in repairing the Body's mechanics, but it is so ignorant that it makes mistakes. One cannot graft a part of one Body onto another like that because subtle matter interacts. It takes much greater discernment than just technical prowess.

Man must treat himself but with Intelligence because there is no disease that does not find its cause in the subtle world. There is no sick person who is not subject to the Law of Universal Causality. Reread the works of Michel Odoul, and you will begin to glimpse that your illnesses are what you inflict on yourself out of ignorance and foolishness.

Disease has a role, a function; it is part of the means that Nature has to awaken man. Each disease is a message that must be taken the time to discover and listen to.

Nature will ensure that humanity is provided with disease, as much as necessary. Today's virus is not tomorrow's, and each one has its role, its place. Again, humanity should understand the respect it owes to Nature because it contains not only the viruses but also everything necessary for treatment and healing.

Nature knows the human Body inside and out, and nothing escapes it. The medicine of the human Body begins with the realization of what the human Body is, and it goes far beyond a simple entanglement of bones, muscles, organs, and blood. Man must discover and understand his Body, this fragment of Nature given to him to manage for his existence.

Reincarnation is madness

The idea of reincarnation may seem strange to many, and yet it is nothing more than an invention, largely stemming from a misunderstanding of the journey of a being, of a Soul. Reincarnation has also been used to preserve caste systems and justify the unjustifiable.

Life is an ongoing journey; one either progresses and moves forward, or one works and remains stagnant in a certain place. The world of dense matter is but a stage on the path of a Soul, and it only needs to experience it once, even if only briefly. The reasons go beyond what humanity can comprehend today.

Earth is a place where a subtle and dense materialization forms around the Soul. From this point, the Soul has to advance on its path towards Our Father. Death is merely a transition to another dimension, to another existence, but always within Life, and you will always remain who you are. There is no loss of identity.

Some have confused the concept of multiple existences with reincarnation, and since then, reincarnation has become a very powerful egregore.

Imagine the confusion for a Soul that would return to Earth! Imagine the madness of mixing memories, thoughts, and emotions without coherence. No one can be the reincarnation of someone else; each being is unique.

In the end, reincarnation is a harmful and dangerous idea. On one hand, it makes people forget why they are on Earth. On the other hand, it induces a kind of madness in people's minds, amplified by the number of Souls stagnating around the Earth.

Reincarnation distances us from Our Father because everyone starts to speculate about the reasons for this or that by seeking their past lives. The trap of the ego closes at that moment, insidiously. Depending on whether you want to flatter or attack, you will choose a defect or a quality from a past life to attach it to someone.

This man is poor and in misery, so he probably deserves it due to his past lives...
Reincarnation is one of the traps of the ego, immensely cunning and powerful.

Reincarnation is a source of madness because humans doubt who they are. They no longer know if they are themselves or something else, the puppet of an invisible hand. Once again, the goal is to lead to madness, to confusion. Many men and women have truly gone mad and become lost due to baseless claims about their past lives.

Reincarnation is a means of justifying the unjustifiable, such as poverty, illness, or religions. What Is, is only the result of the actions, thoughts, emotions, feelings, and desires of each individual and the consequences thereof. The consequences extend far beyond this world of dense matter and affect almost all dimensions or planes.

The price to pay, the consequences, Divine Justice extend throughout Life and thus far beyond this World. Each person must journey towards Our Father's Love and thus understand their mistakes. Reincarnation has no place in this, for it does not exist!

The memories that some are able to uncover are those of your lineages, your ancestors. The Body is a most powerful machine and it carries information from generation to generation.

It is time for humanity to forget the madness of reincarnation, which has caused much harm. How many Souls still cannot accept it and continue to linger around the Earth when they should already be on their way to Our Father.

Believing that proof of reincarnation lies, for example, in a person's ability to recognize objects belonging to the deceased, or to say certain things, neglects the power of thought and the subtle World.

Science without conscience

Who are you, you who believe you know what no man can truly know? The Universe is a creation of the Light, and only Our Father understands all its intricacies. The science of men is imperfect and will always be so. Life, in its essence, will remain incomprehensible to those who remain in ignorance, refusing to believe in Our Father.

The purpose of human science is to facilitate the development of humanity in balance and harmony with Nature. Human science is meant to assist each individual on their path towards Our Father. Human science must rely on and be guided by Nature, for Nature is the greatest of teachers and the most comprehensive of universities. All the lessons that humanity needs are found in Nature.

The foolishness of some lies in believing that by destroying particles or species, they will attain perfect knowledge. Humanity goes astray when it places its science in the service of ego or wealth. 'Science without conscience is only the ruin of the Soul,' as the saying goes.

Humanity must return to the eternal principle of experimental science, the one that keeps its eyes open to the world and to Nature, the one that is conducted outdoors rather than confined within concrete laboratories. It is by opening their eyes and respecting Nature that scientists will progress and bring forth solutions for humanity.

Nature can provide more energy and sustenance than all of humanity requires. It simply requires that people open their eyes and search within Nature. They must search with Love for Nature within themselves. The relationship between scientists and Nature, and among fellow humans, must be rooted in Love. Those who search with the sole objective of satisfying their ego or amassing wealth will find nothing and will wander down dark paths.

Humanity has invented horrors like nuclear weapons, bombs, and all other forms of pollution and devastation of Nature. Anything that lacks respect for Nature is foolishness because it is always possible to harness energy, food, and materials while respecting Nature. Those who, out of ignorance, blindness, and foolishness, cannot see this and resort to violent, destructive, and polluting means commit a dangerous folly for themselves and all of humanity.

There is no need to break, shatter, pierce, burn, cut, or perform other destructive actions to generate or discover energy. There is no need to kill to nourish oneself. Look at these verbs and see how they do not align with Love. Science still has much to uncover, and it must do so with the love of Nature and Our Father in its heart.

Altering creation is madness

Man cannot alter Nature, and all attempts by humanity to modify Nature in its essence will result in terrible consequences. Every species, every plant has its purpose and place. Man must understand what Nature shows him. If he tries to circumvent the Laws of Nature by attempting to alter Nature in its essence, he will trigger a cycle of rebalancing, the consequences of which he will suffer.

Man can only use Nature, make it his most powerful ally because it is the Earth itself. Nature cannot be tamed by ravaging, burning, or altering in its essence what one believes can be improved or is deemed useless, about which, in the end, one understands nothing. The insect that feeds on the grain has its purpose and place, and it is up to man to work, study, and understand. Once he understands, he will know how to proceed, and he will pray to Our Father, he will pray for Nature, and balance will be restored.

He who mistreats and degrades the soil that can nourish him should expect nothing but famine. He who respects, cares for with Love, and prays will have the most magnificent harvests. Earth and Nature reign, and it is up to man to understand the humility his situation demands. The raw intelligence of the brain cannot comprehend Nature; it is far too limited.

Beyond time

The speed of light is the ultimate limit, but it is not about Light itself, but rather about that of heavy matter. The light of heavy matter is slow, constrained by time, while The Light knows no constraints. Its speed is both infinite and non-existent because it is instantly everywhere.

Time only serves a purpose in the world of heavy matter. It is an instrument and a tool. It will disappear on the day it is no longer needed. To understand the Universe and what lies beyond, one must transcend the limit of time and gaze into the subtle world where time does not exist.

Human history is filled with "miracles" and other events that human science labels as "illusions" or "lies," when in fact, the illusion lies within science itself and its limited and sometimes erroneous knowledge. Humans only know the limits they impose on themselves and nothing more. If humans refuse to understand what some among them have known for millennia under the pretext of pseudo-intelligence, scientific ego, well, they will await their death to realize the extent of their foolishness.

The human body is an interweaving of heavy and subtle matter. The latter is the essence of Life and controls the former. One cannot understand the Body, Nature, and the Universe without the subtle matter, by confining themselves to temporal matter, by not exploring the simulacra.

Great men throughout the millennia, all over the world, have shown that this limit must be transcended. Jesus of Nazareth, Buddha, Babaji, and so on, the examples are legion for those who wish to see them.

Thought and Prayer

Who is the man who can know what his brother thinks? All can because men form only One and One Son of Our Father. The thoughts of men are more powerful than their actions. Thoughts remain while actions fade away like illusions.

Thoughts are a creation, a molding of subtle matter, and they will remain for eternity. Thinking evil is worse than acting.

The mastery of thoughts is essential to attain Love, Joy, and Peace. He who does not know how to control his thoughts, his mind, has not yet recovered all that he is; his rebirth is not yet here. And he still needs to work on himself to reach the required degree of mastery.

Thoughts are the creations of men; they are the ones that shape this World and define its path. Actions are nothing more than thoughts transformed into action and therefore acting on heavy matter. By producing Acts of Love, stemming from thoughts of Love, humanity will transform heavy matter, with the help of Nature, which is eagerly awaiting this.

The thoughts of men are everywhere, accessible to those who know how to reach out for them or listen to them. When you think of someone, it has happened to you that, "mysteriously," that person calls you or that you bump into them on the street. There is no mystery here; thoughts have acted, and the other has received the perception, more or less consciously.

Prayers are nothing more than thoughts, imbued with great force, and that is why they are indispensable. But do not confuse mechanical prayers without a Heart from those monstrosities of religions and prayers that come from the depths of Love and the Heart.

Prayer is the most beautiful tool, and it must be included in your Acts of Love. It is through its exercise, within the Act of Love, that you will reach your full potential.

Do not believe that your prayers, which are insincere or in disagreement with the Will of Our Father, will be answered. Only Love is prayer. Only what is the Will of Our Father can be, and it must not circumvent the Laws of the Universe. The Law of Causality and the Law of Evolution are all-powerful, and Our Father cannot change them because they are perfect, divine. Therefore, do not pray for humanity to change but pray for yourself to find the strength and courage to change. Do not ask in prayer for what is only your will but ask to understand what is the Will of Our Father. Your efforts must be in line with your prayers. Your unconditional Love for men, for Nature, and for Our Father must resonate in your prayers. Try it, and you will see. Pray and thank Our Father, His angels, His masters, and guides that they send and all those who are your Brothers and Sisters.

Violence, war, and madness

What do you desire in your lives? Is Peace desirable? Do you wish to feel Joy? Does Love interest you? Would you like to be forgiven for your follies? What do you want to make of this existence? It's up to you to answer these questions because you are free, nothing is forbidden to you, and everything is possible. Look at the history of the last two thousand and twelve years and all the horror it contains; you see, humanity is free...

Violence and war reign over this World, much to the delight of religions and worshippers of the god of money. Your children grow up playing war as if they were there, on giant screens. You call it entertainment! Watching men kill their brothers on a screen is entertainment! Can't you see the horror and madness? In the morning, you go to church or prayer, and in the afternoon, you virtually kill, watch murders and crimes at the movies, gorge on violence on live television. But who are you? What kind of horrible monster are you? Hitler, Stalin, and all the other demoniacal madmen of this World must be screaming with pleasure! The Vatican and all religions take pleasure in seeing this violence spread everywhere.

Look at these madmen who want to defend weapons, look at these madmen who feed you with these violent games, these modern-day Colosseums; look at you drooling and erupting with violence, dripping with money! Who are you? A hideous and dreadful beast or a Child of Our Father?

What will become of your children, whom you have educated with principles of continuous violence, with greed and greediness as principles under the guise of social success? Do you think you can lead humanity this way? Do you believe it will continue like this forever?

Look at the madness of these men who lead you from the summit of this Everest that is their ego! They are the craziest among you because you have erected the ego as the temple of those who must lead you. A blind man leading the blind... the precipice is approaching, and men like Jared Diamond have eloquently shown it to you. Do you understand the cry that resonates on this day? Open your eyes before it's too late and before a rebalancing of this World is set in motion, for it is an inevitable consequence of the path on which humanity finds itself.

Throw away your weapons, those absurd video games. Leave your Children in Peace and teach them about Nature and Love. Keep them away from these screens, stop seeking entertainment in watching blood flow as in the times of torture in the circus. Put an end to this madness, open your eyes, and look at the Sun rising once again for you.

The wonders of this world

Is man a machine of violence, killing, and massacre? Well, no, man is not a machine; he is the fruit of Love, he is a creative intelligence. His thoughts are his strongest creations, those that will last for eternity. But what to do with all these hideous and monstrous thoughts that humanity keeps producing incessantly? This is the mission of Forgiveness, the alchemist of thoughts, the one who knows how to convert anything into Love. Nothing resists him, and on Judgment Day, at the end of time, when Humanity awakens, it will have to forgive all its madness and foolishness and thus finish cleaning up its history.

The more humanity produces these thoughts, the more significant the work will be, and today there are not yet enough Sons and Daughters of Our Father in this World to contain this incessant flood. A Son or Daughter of Our Father is not a follower of religions; by nature, they are men or women who have, on the contrary, distanced themselves from everything that is religious to return to Our Father.

Going to church or temples is pointless; you only serve the madmen of religions and do not contribute to the awakening of humanity. On the contrary, you only accentuate the madness of this world. Leave religions, leave them to the bramble field that is their future and final abode.

Let this god of money become a simple servant again because no wealth of this world will bring you Peace, Joy, or Love. Money has become a religion for you, and the latter knows how to use it to bind itself to him. Money madmen are religious madmen; there is no difference. Money is just a tool that is sometimes useful; it is nothing more than a simple tool. Humanity must bring it back to its place. It too will eventually disappear once its usefulness has passed.

Look at those men who have chased after money by producing weapons. Look at those men who have pursued money by producing wretched food for their brothers and sisters. Look at them because their paths will be long and painful. They have forgotten who they are and succumbed to the vilest temptation. Stop adoring them as saints just because they have a lot of money or power because they are the poorest of men, the most unhappy, and their future existences will be painful.

He who has nothing but the Love of Our Father within him, with the power of Peace, Joy, and Love, he has all the riches of this World. He possesses what no money will ever give, what no religion knows, what no social honor bestows. He possesses this World in his Heart, and he can do everything.

Religion and money

Who goes there on this dead-end path? Why are you getting lost like this for a few more bills? What good will all this wealth do you once you've left this World? What currency will you have beyond Death? Will you have accumulated enough riches in the subtle realm to pay your debts there? Wealth if not of money. Money has become a religion that captures the Hearts of men.

The world needs a means of exchange to progress on its path. A day will come when it's no longer necessary, but for now, it is so. However, money has been elevated like a god; religions have used it with avidity, greed, and strengthened the social model around the king of money. Capitalism is nothing more than a religion, with its faithful, its temples, and its universe of scourges.

Upon your death, you will take nothing of this illusory fortune with you, and you can no longer enjoy it. Lost, you won't know where to go, and your journey will be long to return to Love. The riches of this world and the ones beyond are those bestowed by Love. Joy and Peace are priceless. Wisdom is a fortune beyond fortunes. The richest and most powerful men are not who you think.

Your path was lost the day you made the need for more and more the sole object of your existence. Nothing material will make you happy; look at the misery of these supposedly rich men and women. None of their material possessions give them Peace, Joy, or Wisdom. Like religious fanatics, they lock themselves into the unhappiness they construct day by day.

The one who is poor will become rich because wealth is not of this heavy material world. Material wealth is a madness that drives humanity to dirty, pollute, and ravage Nature. Where will you go to find diamonds when there are no more? What water will you drink when there is none left to drink?

Money, like religions, must disappear, and it will disappear. The religion of money, capitalism, and excessive consumption must quickly vanish if humanity wants to spare itself the most serious consequences of its folly.

Animals are not toys

Animals are not toys, they are not objects that can be "raised" in a factory to be killed with indifference and no respect. Animals are Life and Nature; you cannot treat them in this way without risking the associated consequences. The meat of an animal killed without respect contains what you put into it by killing it in such a manner. Oh, this meat will nourish you, but it will introduce into your Body what you put into it when you killed the animal this way.

For many, you are eating meat filled with fear, stress, and anger, and furthermore, you prepare it without any Love in abhorrent places like fast-food restaurants. What do you want? Do you want your Body to be healthy? Well, put an end to this horror.

Humans can nourish themselves with the flesh of animals, no ritual - religious or otherwise - is necessary to kill an animal, you just need to do it with Love and respect for that animal. Humanity must respect Nature and animals; they are Life as much as the human body is.

Raising animals solely for the purpose of killing them without respect or Love is madness. Animals have a role, a function in the balance of Nature. They are not there solely to satisfy the bloodlust of some men. There will come a time when humanity will know how to nourish itself without the need to kill any animals. In the meantime, animals must be respected, just as flowers or trees must be respected.

Animals are indispensable to the balance of Nature, and in many ways, they are examples and sources of inspiration for humanity. Humans must look at them, admire them, and let them be free, let them live, evolve, and find their place alongside them.

The more humans shape Nature and this World with their Acts of Love, the faster Nature will evolve, and new species will find their way within Evolution. Love will spread in Nature and among animals. Nature provides humanity with what it needs to understand. It is governed by the Law of Causality and the Law of Evolution.

Humanity must learn to Love animals, plants, all of Nature because it is its home, its school, and its teacher. Everything is there for humanity, but let humanity not believe that it can devastate, soil, and pollute Nature without consequences.

To conclude

What more do you need beyond all that you already have? Nature provides you with everything you need to live this existence, and Our Father Loves you and will always Love you. Don't you believe that this is sufficient? Dissatisfaction, always wanting more material possessions, more forms, will lead you nowhere. Men like Jared Diamond have explained this through the history of humanity and shown the abyss that lies ahead.

Humanity must open its eyes to those who bring an authentic message, untainted by the monstrosities of religion. You will recognize their messages; they are nothing but Intelligence and Love. The slightest hint of hatred, violence, or absolute inequality between women and men is a sign of a message that is not authentic. Our Father is Love, and the only thing He can give you is Love and Forgiveness, nothing else.

If this book seems too mystical to you, the work of an enlightened or a sick person, then read the works of great men: Gandhi and Michel Onfray, to name just two. One will bring you the message of Love with evidence of its effectiveness in this world, a political proof. The other will deliver a message about the Love of this world, a philosophy of light full of humanity and Intelligence.

Do not be mistaken; there are many men and women around you who are on the path to Our Father. The awakening of consciousness has begun. Of course, many prefer to say nothing, to show nothing, because the fools of religion and ignorance still reign, but the movement is underway. The Will of Our Father will prevail.

Nature is there to help humanity, and humanity must understand this. Humanity must stop ravaging, polluting, and desecrating Nature. It is urgent for humanity to become aware and take action. Nature is not at risk. Life is not at risk. However, humanity may experience a painful episode that will bring it back to its path.

If Nature acts and Death takes many earthly lives to the next existence, do not weep. Open your eyes and look at the result of your foolishness and madness. Dry your tears, then act to finally change humanity.

Humanity will never be alone; it never has been. Messengers of Our Father are always there to convey the message of His Love. You will rarely find them among religions because religions are nothing but inventions of men. Open your eyes and look for those who are nothing but Love, humility, and discretion, Peace and Joy. Listen to them, use your Intelligence, be critical because you must convince yourself, that's how you find True Faith in Our Father.
